Mock War Today Will Test Defense

A mock war will be waged from 12 noon to 5 p.m. today, MST, to test North America's air defenses.

The "war" is dubbed Sky Shield III, and will be directed from headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) at Ent Air Force Base. It involves 2,000 military aircraft under the jurisdiction of NORAD and the U. S. Strategic Air Command (SAC) and more than 200,000 NORAD and SAC personnel.

During the 5½ hours of the operation all civilian aircraft, approximately 1,800 scheduled airliners and more than 75,000 private and business aircraft, will be grounded.

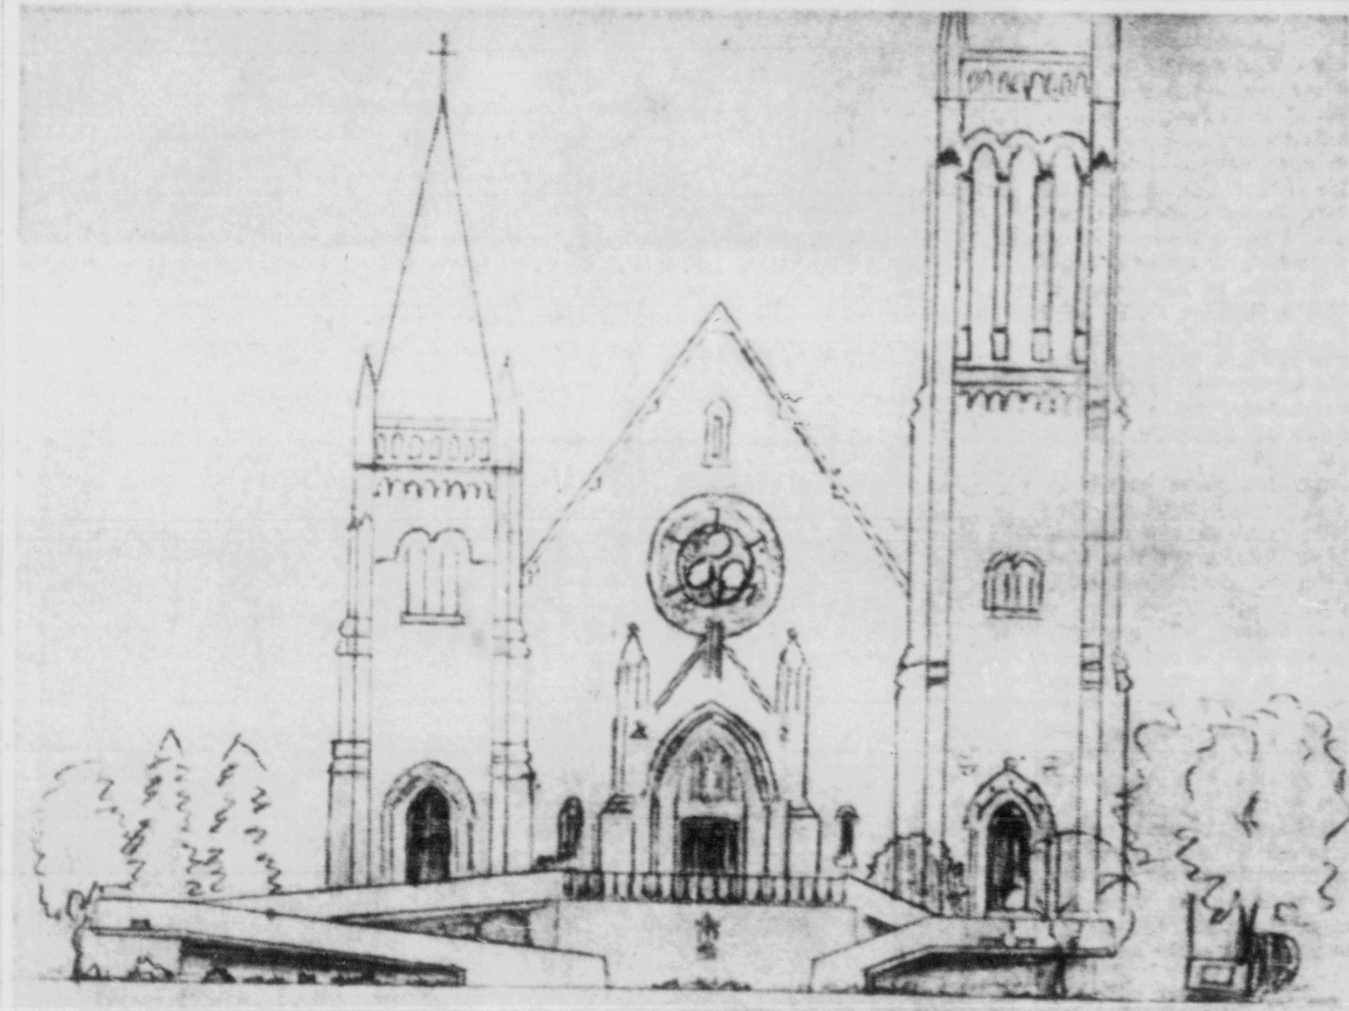

This mid-Labor Day holiday weekend was picked by NORAD deliberately as causing the least inconvenience to the traveling public. But Sky Shield III still will cost the grounded airline carriers about $1 million.

American, Trans World, United, Western, Southern and Los Angeles Airways are holding "open house" at various airports. The public had been invited to inspect planes and special exhibits—a gimmick which during last year's Sky Shield drew hundreds of thousands of visitors to airports.

None of the commercial airline companies operating at Peterson Field will hold open house. All aircraft of Continental, Braniff and Central Airlines which operate thru Colorado Springs will be at Denver a terminal point.

All civilians will be forbidden to military airport premises during the 5½-hour operation, according to the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA).

The defense exercise will see attacking B52 and B47 jet bombers sweep in against key U. S. and Canadian targets, setting into motion the vast defense network—in (Turn to Page A4, Column 5)

Carson Soldier Held for Assault With Gun on Boy

A Ft. Carson soldier was in the custody of Colorado Springs police Saturday for assaulting a 16-year-old youth with a gun during a fight Friday night in front of the Uptown Liquor Store, 18 S. Corona St.

Jimmie D. Trice, Service Battery, 5th Battalion, 4th Artillery, attacked Booker T. Boatright Jr., of 717 E. Moreno Ave. after pulling a gun on him and two companions, J. L. Richardson, 24, of 231 S. Prospect St., and Howard Warren, 20, of 518 N. Royer St.

Richardson called officers to the scene at 10:56 p.m. Friday after Trice had been subdued. According to the police report, five officers were sent to the Uptown Liquor Store, where they saw three men kicking Trice on the ground. They called the ambulance for Trice and sent him to the U. S. Army Hospital at Ft. Carson.

Boatright told police that he, Richardson and Warren had been to Fuller's Drive-In Restaurant, 531 E. Pikes Peak Ave. As they were leaving Trice walked up behind him, he said, stuck a gun in the back of his neck and told him to get into the Richardson car.

Boatright said he tried to talk with Trice but Trice became angry and fired the gun at his and Warren's feet. Richardson offered to take Trice to the liquor store and buy him a drink. When they arrived, Trice argued with Boatright, hitting him against the side of the head with the gun and firing it. Trice then turned the gun on Warren. Warren grabbed it and hit Trice.

Boatright jumped out of the car, grabbing a paring knife from the front seat and tried to stab Trice, but the blade bent, Police said.

Both the gun and the knife were picked up as evidence by the police officers. A bullet hole was found in the right rear floor board and in the right front seat.

Two UPH Nurses Fired Because of Recommendation

A resident in the Union Printer's Home informed the Gazette Telegraph Saturday that two nurses were fired from their jobs there because of a recommendation which met with opposition from the head nurse.

The man said that another resident in the home has a staphylococcus infection which the two nurses knew was contagious, and suggested to the head nurse that the man be isolated. When they advised the head nurse about this, they were fired.

The resident, who declined to be named, said, "Every man on the floor with this man is a victim of infection because he uses our soap, towels and water, and any human contact makes them infected. To me and to the nurses it is a hazardous position and I believe we're going to wind up with an epidemic."

Dowell Patterson, superintendent of the home, said he had no comment.

Integrated Buras School Plans to Reopen Tuesday

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1 (UPI)—An integrated Roman Catholic school in Buras, La., that was closed for fear of segregationist violence will open again on Tuesday regardless of protests and a white boycott, it was announced today.

Headache Remedy May Do Damage to Kidneys

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration is investigating a common headache remedy ingredient after reports that excessive use may damage the kidneys.

The headache remedy drug—used in a number of trademarked products—sold over drug stores contains acetaminophen, also known as phenacetin.

In disclosing the inquiry Friday, FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick said the question of possible harm has been raised only in connection with large and repeated doses for ailments other than headaches.

He stressed that the investigation is one of a number now under confession booths, a new heating system for the church, remodeling of the basement to enlarge the auditorium seating capacity and enlargement of the stage. A building permit was issued Friday for the project.

Somerset Forest Fire Battled by Indian Fighters

Somerset (UPI)—Teams of experienced Navajo Indian firefighters pressed into service four large tractors Saturday in a desperate attempt to contain a forest fire burning uncontrolled on a one mile front and one-half miles north of this small southwestern Colorado town.

The fire, which already has blackened more than 1,900 acres of timber and grassland and created a critical shortage of winter forage for wildlife, was reported sweeping up a steep canyon covered with heavy stands of Douglas fir and oak brush. The fire scene is only a few miles south of Grand Mesa National Park.

Robert L. Shultz, assistant fire boss at the scene and assistant manager at the Montrose office of the Bureau of Land Management, reported shortly before noon Saturday that the fire had been contained on the remaining two (Turn to Page A4, Column 3)

St. Mary's Catholic Church Begins Improvement Work

St. Mary's Catholic Church has begun a $153,686 remodeling and building program which will include construction of a new sacristy, according to Msgr. Robert Hoffman.

A building permit was issued Friday for the construction.

Msgr. Hoffman said the new sacristy will be built as an addition to the east side of the church to house vestments for the priests. Another sacristy is located on the west side of the church for altar boys and rosary women.

If the church budget allows, Msgr. Hoffman said, the front steps to the church will be replaced with a modern stair frontage along the front width of the church.

Also planned is rehabilitation of the basement to include a stage, and remodeling of the auditorium to enlarge the seating capacity to 700. The narthex and baptistry will also be remodeled.

New confession booths will be built to replace existing ones, and a new heating system will be installed in the church.

Lusk and Wallace, Architects, are designers for the rehabilitation project.

The cold front moving down from the northwest Saturday night is expected to produce snow flurries in the northern Rockies and lower temperatures.

Frazer moved back into the national weather news Saturday as it claimed the nation's lowest temperature with a reading of 14 degrees.

Firing on U.S. Plane Denied in Castro Statement

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro declared today United States charges that Cuban patrol boats fired on a U.S. Navy airplane over international waters Thursday were "absolutely false."

The prime minister's strongly worded statement to the Cuban press appeared under banner headlines. The Communist newspaper Hoy said Washington's charges were "only a pretext to attack us."

The White House said Friday the Navy plane, on a training mission, was 15 miles off the Cuban coast when fired upon by two Cuban patrol boats. The three naval reservists aboard were not injured. The White House warned that U.S. planes and ships had been authorized to use all means to protect themselves.

Castro said no Cuban air or sea craft carried out a hostile attack against any U.S. planes or ships.

"Real incidents provoked by Cuba will never occur," he declared, but he said the United States government "lacks scruples."

Cuba is unafraid in the face of "brutal threats," he asserted, and added: "If U.S. armed forces attack (Turn to Page A4, Column 6)

Encephalitis Claims Its 13th Victim

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Florida recorded its 13th suspected sleeping sickness death Saturday. The announcement prompted a statement by Gov. Farris Bryant urging residents to remain calm.

Apart from the deaths, an additional 129 suspected cases have been reported since health authorities first announced the outbreak (Turn to Page A4, Column 8)

Driver Pinned Against Car; Leg Fractured Twice

Clyde M. Fox, 49, of 15 S. 13th St., suffered a broken leg in two places Saturday afternoon when he was struck by a car in the 1200 block of West Pikes Peak Avenue.

Police Officer David Hadden reported that Fox was taken to Memorial Hospital by E and E Ambulance after the accident.

Hadden said that Fox told him he had pulled his car to the side of the street and was examining the motor when he was struck by a car which backed from a nearby driveway.

Hadden identified the driver of the other car as Clyde L. Bishop, 54, of 1224 W. Pikes Peak Ave.

Bishop said he backed his car from the driveway and across the street without seeing the car or man on the opposite side of the street. He was ticketed for careless driving.

Hadden said the rear of the Bishop car pinned Fox against his own car.

U. S. Is Watching Closely Sea Lanes to Cuba

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has shown how close it is watching the sea lanes to Cuba.

It let it be known Friday, when the White House announced that a Navy plane was fired on by naval vessels 15 miles from Cuba. The White House also announced that in the future if any U.S. aircraft or ships are fired on while in or over international waters they should "employ all means necessary for their own protection."

The language of the statement made evident the intention to shoot back if fired upon—a policy already made applicable to similar situations involving Russian and Red Chinese attacks on U.S. aircraft.

However, circumstances of the incident off Cuba left open some questions not answered officially. The SZF "tracker" plane which was fired upon normally carries no defensive armament such as machine guns or missiles. How then could such a plane reply to attack?

There are two possibilities: Machine guns or small caliber cannon might be installed; fighter escort might be provided.

Because Cuba is less than 100 miles from Florida, escorting planes with land-based fighters would be simple. Carrier-based aircraft could provide similar protection.

SZF planes are essentially anti-submarine aircraft, powered by two engines and able to carry bombs or depth charges. Their search equipment includes fairly long range radar, useful for spotting ships or surfaced submarines. In addition, the Grumman "tracker" is equipped with magnetic detection gear for pinpointing the location of a submarine after the general area has been determined.

The White House statement did not say what type of weapons were used by the two ships.

Nor did it describe the ships, other than to say they were small naval vessels "believed to be Cuban."

This latter phrase could have been prompted by usual diplomatic caution or by doubt as to nationality (Turn to Page A4, Column 4)

Commentator Identifies Body Of Son in Greece

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Television commentator Mike Wallace has identified the decomposed body of his son, Peter, 20, found in a Greek ravine Friday, and asked U. S. consulate authorities to arrange for its return to the United States.

The body of the youth, who had been missing nearly four weeks, was brought to Athens today from Corinth, on the Peloponnese peninsula 40 miles west of this city. It had been found at the bottom of a ravine seven miles south of Corinth.

Mike Wallace, who arrived in Greece Thursday to join in the hunt, identified it Friday night.

Close to tears, Wallace, 44, said the body will be sent to New York as soon as possible for burial services. The date and other arrangements were left to consular authorities.

Wallace headed back to New York today aboard a commercial jetliner.

Young Wallace came to Greece Aug. 3 with a group of French students. He went with them to a summer camp at Xylocastro, 77 miles west of Athens.

Three days after his arrival in Greece, U. S. Embassy officials said, he decided to visit a small monastery on top of a nearby mountain.

Wallace apparently left the main footpath and tried a shortcut up a steep narrow path to the top of the mountain. Presumably he slipped and fell, officials said. His body was found in a ravine 100 feet down from the main path.

Youth Returns From Peak as Search Made

Robert Fox, 21, visiting Colorado Springs from Texas, calmly walked into his temporary residence at 2430 N. Nevada Ave. Saturday night while officials of the Pikes Peak Patrol scoured the Barr Trail searching for his whereabouts.

The search started early Saturday night when Fox was reported missing after traveling to the summit of the mountain on the Cog Road during the afternoon.

Colorado Springs police received a report that Fox failed to return on the train, and a search party, armed with his description, started at the top of Pikes Peak and walked down the Barr Trail in search of him.

Residents of the Colorado Springs area were able to see flares fired at various intervals by the search group.

Fox returned home unharmed shortly after 9 p.m. He reported that he rode the train down the mountain, but was delayed when he encountered transportation difficulties between Manitou Springs and the Nevada Avenue address.

Wyoming Chief Slashed During One-Shot Hunt

LANDER, Wyo. (UPI)—A dying antelope slashed Gov. Jack R. Gage of Wyoming on the left forearm Saturday while the governor was trying to cut its throat. It took seven stitches to close the wound.

Gage was hurt during the Lander One-Shot antelope hunt. He led the Wyoming team, one of four four-man units competing for the championship on the opening day of Wyoming's big game season.

Tom Moore, president of the American Broadcasting System television network and a member of the All-American team in the hunt, wounded the animal. Gage grabbed one of its horns and was trying to kill it by severing its jugular vein when it slashed him with a front hoof.

A Lander physician treated the wound.

Gage killed his own antelope at 6:05 a.m. MST. He knocked the antelope down with a shot from 200 yards, then killed it in the fashion he tired unsuccessfully four hours later on Moore's kill.

Movie cowboy Roy Rogers, a member of the All-American team, got the first antelope of the day—a clean kill from 250 yards.

Each of the men had only one bullet to get an antelope in the competition. In case of ties, the team with the earliest kills wins.

At mid-afternoon, the Colorado team led with two kills and two shots unfired. The Wyoming and All-American teams were tied with two kills and one miss—and one shot left. The Kansas team had two kills and two misses.

Maj. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle of the All-American team missed his shot, but got an antelope with a second shot later—good for a personal trophy but not eligible for the competition.

American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss, former governor of South Dakota, was scheduled to be captain of the All-American team, but could not take part because of the illness of his mother in South Dakota. Govs. Steve McNichols of Colorado and John A. Slaughter (Turn to Page A4, Column 8)

Population of World Reaches 3.25 Billion

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—With the birth rate doubling the death rate, the world's population has reached an indicated 3.25 billion.

U.N. statistics published Saturday night estimated the world birth rate at 36 per 1,000 population in mid-1961, the death rate at 18 per 1,000.

The baby boom is swelling the world at the rate of almost five million monthly.

At its present growth rate, estimated at 1.8 per cent, the world could touch the 4-billion mark in less than 15 years.

The figures, covered in the annual U.N. Demographic Yearbook and the latest quarterly population statistics report, indicated States.

China may be near—if it has not passed—the 700-million mark. Central America with an annual rate of growth of 2.7 per cent was listed as the fastest growing area. Southwest Asia was next with 2.6 per cent. Countries of northern and western Europe showed an increase of only 0.7 per cent a year.

The latest official estimate of U.S. population was given as 185.3 million, as of last April 1. The annual rate of increase in the United States for the 1953-60 period was 1.7 per cent.

India's population was estimated at 440.3 million in mid-1961, the Soviet Union's at 218 million. The latter had a growth rate of 1.7 per cent, the same as the United States.

Officer-Cadet Program to Be Started Friday

Highlight of the kick-off of the 1962-63 officer participation program at the Air Force Academy will be the presentation of "certificates of affiliation" to more than 350 officers and their wives.

The certificates symbolize the close ties which exist between the staff members and cadet and cadet squadron "adopted" under the unique program.

Thru the officer participation program, academy officers and their families take an active interest in cadets and cadet activities. They attend cadet social and athletic functions and entertain cadets in their homes.

Presentation of the certificates will be made during the kick-off Friday in Arnold Hall.

A special series of skits prepared by cadets — Cadet Capers — will be presented to familiarize participants with various aspects of cadet life.

Following the Arnold Hall program, the officers and their wives will be invited to an open house in the cadet area.

Fountain Dedicates New City Building, Postoffice

Two buildings—a new Municipal Building and a new Postoffice—were dedicated Saturday morning in Fountain.

First to be dedicated was the Municipal Building, at 10 a.m., followed by dedicating of the Postoffice. Preceding the ceremonies the Ft. Carson Army Band and other units paraded thru the town, and other activities kept residents and visitors busy.

The Municipal Building is the result of long-time planning by town officials. Initially, the need was for a firehouse, but it became evident to officials that space was also needed for police and administrative offices. Plans, therefore, were changed to include all facilities needed.

The building, which will go into use Monday, will house the Fountain Volunteer Fire Department, the police department, the clerk-recorder and the administrative staff.

The building includes a large assembly room, rest rooms, a kitchen and two storage rooms. A walk-in vault is available for storage of records.

Legal Restraints Against School Board Lifted

BRECKENRIDGE (AP)—Temporary facilities will be found for school children in Summit County in the wake of a court order lifting all legal restraints from the county's school board.

An attorney for the board said the facilities will be used where ever available in Breckenridge, Frisco and elsewhere.

"They'll use churches or whatever other facilities are available," the attorney said. "The board is now free to go ahead with building a new school at Frisco."

Supt. Robert E. Aspegren said today plans were being made to have the Denver Water Board move a seven-room temporary structure to a site in Frisco owned by the school district.

A two-room temporary building in Breckenridge also will be moved to the Frisco site, he said. The school district will pay moving costs.

The superintendent said it will be at least Sept. 17 before the district will be able to open classrooms.

Dist. Judge Francis Shallenberger of Sterling, appointed by the Colorado Supreme Court to hear the case, vacated all orders and restraints against the school board.

Under his order Thursday the only way Summit County residents opposing construction of a new school at Frisco can halt the work is to obtain a temporary injunction and post a bond in cash or U.S. government bonds.

The school board began work on the new building on a tract of U.S. Forest Service land last spring.

Opponents of the construction of Breckenridge and state residents opposing the school board's construction work at Frisco, then disqualified himself from hearing further proceedings.

Judge Shallenberger sustained a motion by attorneys for the board to vacate the prohibition writ.

Breckenridge residents three times have defeated proposed bond issues for a new school. The school board said it was using other funds for the disputed construction work at Frisco.

The high school at Breckenridge has been shut down as unsafe, and an elementary school at Dillon is in the area that will be covered by waters of the Dillon Dam and Reservoir.

But Fred Neef and Robert Swanson of Denver, attorneys for the board, refused to accept anything but vacating of the entire order.

Quiet Students Winners In Unique Classroom Test

By LYNN POOLE

The Johns Hopkins University

The "quiet" students beat the "vocal" students in a unique test of group behavior conducted recently on the Berkeley (California) campus of the University of California.

The results came as a startling surprise to the "vocal" students, who thought they had outperformed their silent classmates on every score. Hardly less surprised were the "quiet" students, who had previously expressed strong dissatisfaction with their work on a group study task.

The experiment may hold some lessons on the values of different kinds of leadership, and on the fact that ability to "speak out" isn't the only quality needed in a good leader.

Setting for the experiment was a graduate course in the School of Public Health supervised by Dr. Andie Knutson, lecturer in public health and director of the School's Behavioral Science Project.

During the first few weeks of the semester, the students (who were unaware that an experiment was being conducted) were divided into four groups: "very vocal," "vocal," "quiet" and "very quiet." All were evenly matched in intelligence.

Each group was assigned a similar task — to test and evaluate a public health pamphlet and to make a group report recommending ways the pamphlet could be improved.

When the four reports were later judged by expert consultants in the California Department of Public Health, the work of the two "quiet" groups was unanimously ranked first.

The "vocal" students, it appeared, had been unable to work as a team, and in the "very vocal" group no one had even bothered to read the entire student report before it was submitted.

Summing up the results, Dr. Knutson said that "fast-speaking members of the vocal group needed a leader who could hold them back until sound decisions were reached, help them to evaluate progress and make necessary changes in plans, coordinate ideas and findings and make sure that an integrated product resulted."

Commenting on the report, psychologists at several other institutions of higher learning expressed considerable interest in the findings. Several stated that in today's pattern of scholarly research the group or team effort is predominant. Few men in our society retire to a small room, hidden in the depths of some cavernous building and work alone until some discovery of greatness has been made. Teams of scientists work together in a task force on most of the problems being researched in our contemporary world.

The California report is another indication that too many people talk first and think later, or think not at all.

Several scientists wondered what the results would have been if the quiet and vocal students had been mixed together. Would the quiet ones have slowed the vocal students down and forced them to think?

Meany Warns Against Rigged Opinion Poll

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany today warned his membership to be on guard against a "rigged" opinion poll sponsored by the national right to work committee.

In a letter to AFL-CIO locals, Meany said the poll deliberately framed questions that would give answers showing most Americans oppose the union shop.

According to Meany, the principle question in the poll asked if any American should be forced to join a church, union or political organization against his will.

Using this type of wording, Meany said the interviewee could only answer no. "To equate membership in a trade union with a man's religious or political beliefs, is not only dishonest but malicious," Meany said.

He said the survey is trying to prove that unions should be brought under antitrust laws and formia flyer.

Its results are being quoted by congressmen who oppose labor laws at polls in the 1958 elections.

But Meany said the falseness of the poll's results are shown by the fact that six out of seven states defeated right to work laws at polls in the 1958 elections.

Lamp Ignites Pillow, Fire Spreads on Bed

A pillow came in contact with a bed lamp at 2:08 a.m. Saturday and off to the residence of Bert A. Robinson, 220 E. Las Vegas St., went companies 1 and 4 and car 14 of the fire department.

When the firemen arrived other bedding also was on fire, but the flames were doused and the house did not get on fire.

A faulty valve in a hot water heater at the home of Mrs. M. G. Myers, 2410 N. Wahsatch Ave., caused a run of Company 2 at 4:58 a.m. Saturday. There was no fire.

Company 5 at 5:15 p.m. Friday went to the residence of Edward Paris, 3017 W. Kiowa St., where an odor of gas was detected. There was no fire. The firemen shut off the gas.

Integrated Buras School Plans to Reopen Tuesday

charges that violence and economic reprisals were threatened in the Mississippi Delta town 60 miles south of New Orleans. Archbishop John P. Cody declared that Our Lady of Good Harbor Elementary school would open its doors Tuesday for white and Negro children.

The archbishop said the Buras school technically was not closed down. "Classes were just not held Friday," he said.

He added, "Schools are scheduled to reopen in Buras Tuesday."

Segregationists in the town vowed that no more than a handful of white children would attend and that their boycott would keep the school almost empty while it is integrated.

There are two other parochial schools in the town, one for Negroes alone and one for children of mixed blood. Segregationists through the weekend were urging Negro families to send their children to one of these schools rather than to the school with white children.

Plaquemines parish county political leader Leander H. Perez, a Catholic excommunicated by the church for his opposition to parochial school integration, urged whites in the town of 4,900 to boycott the school and to ostracize parents who sent their children to the school operated by nuns.

The school was the first to be integrated by the New Orleans Archdiocese. All the others will be integrated when they open Tuesday.

Our lady of Good Harbor opened last Wednesday with five Negro children, four girls and a boy, in attendance. Only 44 of the 340 regularly enrolled white pupils showed up. On Thursday, the Negroes stayed home as a result of mysterious phone calls to their parents and only 25 white pupils went to school, walking in past pickets and a sound truck that blared "Dixie."

Friday, the church pastor, Rev. Christopher Schneider formerly of Louisville, Ky., closed the school charging "threats of physical violence and fear of inadequate police protection."

U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy ordered an immediate FBI investigation. The parish sheriff, Chester Wooten, denied as "lies" charges that there might not be enough police to keep order.

The only incident in Buras was on the opening day of school when a bystander punched a television cameraman in the face.

Archbishop Cody told newsmen Saturday all schools in the archdiocese which comprises 11 parishes (counties) will be open "to all races."

The archbishop, successor to Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel who ordered the integration, said he did not know how many Negroes have registered in formerly all-white parochial schools. He said the figures would be available after school starts.

Mrs. B. J. Galliot, an excommunicated segregationist who holds that the Bible opposes racial mixing, said she would picket the Mater Dolorosa parochial school in New Orleans on Tuesday.

Both Mrs. Galliot and Perez, who has been political czar of oil-rich Plaquemines Parish for 40 years, defied the Church hierarchy.

Perez charged the churchmen were using "communist intimidation," and said the archdiocese had accepted a $3 million federal grant as "payoff" for integrating its schools. Archbishop Cody Friday denied the accusation.

In addition to parochial schools, 21 public elementary schools in New Orleans will be integrated next week, an increase of 15 over last year.

Police Supt. Joseph I. Giarrusso said his force would tolerate no outbursts or demonstrations such as occurred almost two years ago when integration began. There were no incidents last year.

The 12 Negro pupils who entered white public schools last year will be joined by another 115, according to registration figures.

Three previously all-white public schools will be converted into all-Negro schools under a court-approved school board plan.

Unsuccessful Attempt Made to Crack Safe

An unsuccessful attempt was made Friday night to crack the safe in the Safeway Store, 515 S. 25th St., officials of the sheriff's office reported Saturday.

Charles Dietsche, deputy sheriff, reported that Ray Giersch, manager of the store, told him that entrance to the store was made thru the rear door, and attempts were made to tip the safe on its side.

Nothing else was disturbed inside the store, Dietsche said.

August Warmer, Drier Than Usual In Peak Region

August was only slightly warmer than normal and much drier than usual in the Pikes Peak Region, according to U. S. Weather Bureau records.

The mean temperature at the Peterson Field station for August was 71 compared to a normal mean of 69 for the month.

The mean maximum last month was 87, compared to a normal mean maximum of 84. The mean minimum was 54 which is normal for August.

Total precipitation last month measured only 15 of an inch, which was 2.91 inches below the August normal of 2.16. The greatest amount of precipitation was recorded on the 12th, totaling .66 of an inch.

The low precipitation for the month brought the year's total to 7.82, which was 2.97 below normal for the first seven months.

There were 13 days of thunderstorm activity during the month. The weather station reported 16 clear days, 12 partly cloudy days and only 3 cloudy days during August.

Temperatures last month ranged from a low of 44 on the 25th to a high of 96 on the 10th and 14th. The all-time August low is 34, recorded in 1903, and the all-time high of 99 was recorded in 1954.

east of the capital on the main east-west highway.

Municipal authorities in Boghari said in a telephone conversation that machine gun and mortar fire could be heard clearly south of that city.

Radio Algiers called on the population to mass in the streets in a demonstration against the Ben Bella forces. The leftist Ben Bella and his Political Bureau closed up shop in Algiers a week ago after guerrilla commanders banned their activities here.

The announcement of the fighting on guerrilla LA. Ali Aouache hit the city as a surprise. Earlier there had been reports of reconciliation and that regular army forces had pulled back from attack positions in the barren hills outside Algiers.

Ben Bella's Political Bureau had called on the 45,000-man regular army and loyal guerrillas to move on Algiers and restore order.

The guerrillas, under the command of Col. Si Hassan, declared they would never attack their military brothers, "but we will oppose the installation of a dictatorship with all our strength."

Teenager Dies Following Kidney Transplant

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The side effects of a rare operation, in which she received a healthy kidney from her mother, brought death early today to 15-year-old Janet Crick of Chicago.

A hospital statement said she died of a hemorrhage caused by complications of the total body irradiation she received prior to the transplant operation. The transplanted kidney had continued to function very well.

Doctors explained that whole body irradiation with X rays and the use of drugs was necessary prior to the Aug. 6 operation to prepare Janet's body for the kidney from her mother, Mrs. Rowena Crick, 41.

The treatments were intended to suppress the antibodies, the body's defense mechanism, so that the body would not reject the foreign kidney.

Most kidney transplants are attempted only where the donor and recipient are identical twins. Only three successful operations involving persons who were not twins are known to have been performed, all in Europe.

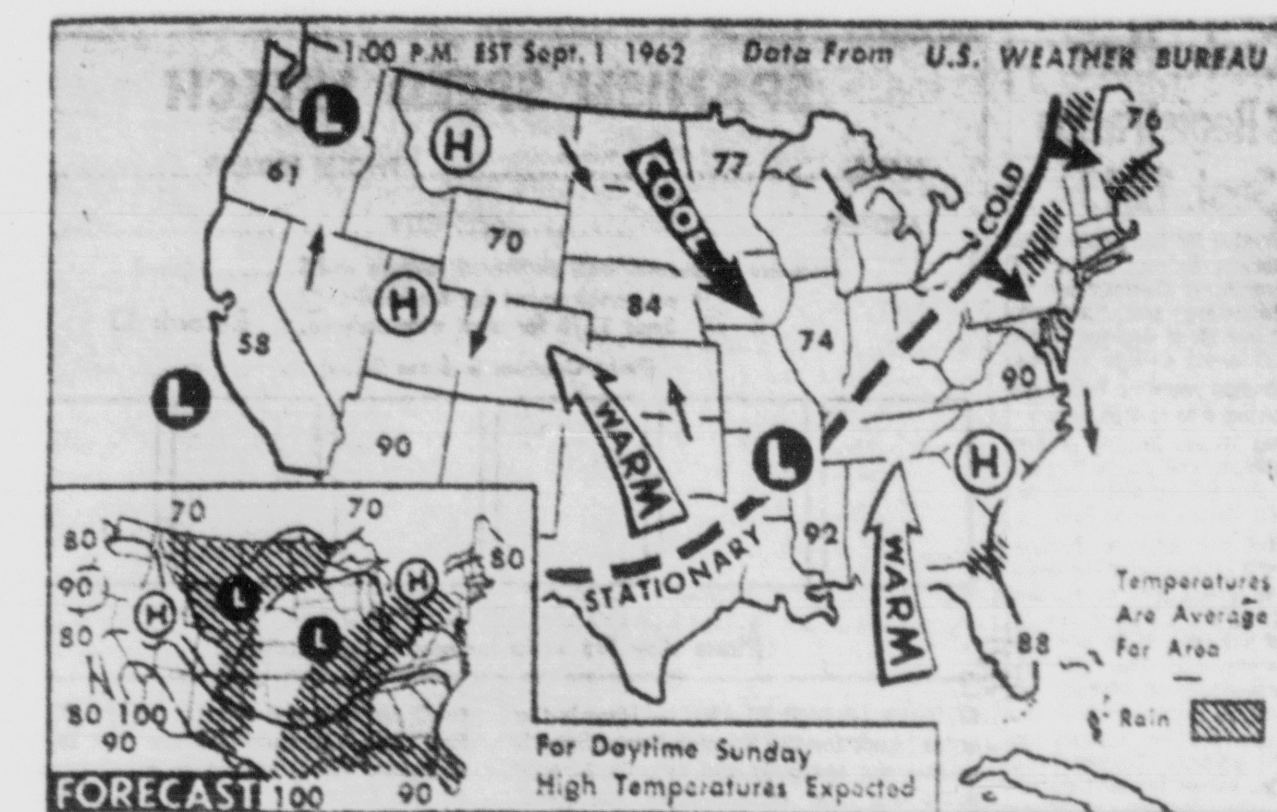

Janet's mother made the decision regarding the operation at Medical College of Virginia Hospital here after it was learned the girl would die from defective kidneys unless action was taken.

Carson Man Arrested For Breaking Window

Colorado Springs police apprehended Embury Clay Wendell of Ft. Carson Friday night after they saw him smash a plate glass window at the Kenmore Company, 15 E. Colorado Ave.

A police report said that crashing officers saw a large crowd of men gathered in front of the Kenmore Company about 9:25 p.m. Friday when one of the men smashed the window. The officers chased the man into an alley.

Wendell was injured from the broken glass and had taken a $1 pocket knife which is being held as evidence in the case.

mile front of the fire. However, he said there still were a number of "hotspots" in this area that had to be extinguished.

Shultz also reported that the fire which got to within one-fourth of a mile of Somerset Thursday night had been put out and that the town no longer was threatened.

Shultz said there were 120 men on the fire lines Saturday, and that strongest efforts were being made in the west sector where the fire is out of control in the Bear Creek region.

He said the fire already had destroyed 1,500 acres of valuable forage.

Firefighters' hopes of containing the remaining fire were lessened by weather predictions of low humidity and strong, gusty wind in the area.

So far, the fire has not damaged any buildings. But it did cause minor damage to a stack of poles belonging to the Western Colorado Power Co., and almost burned into the Geneva mine near Somerset before mine employees turned it away.

Food and supplies for the firefighters were being flown in by helicopters.

Scientists Claim Evidence for Red Venus Shot Fizzle

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. scientists said today they had definite evidence that a Russian space shot failed and they speculated that it might have been an attempt to send a space probe toward Venus.

The scientists said four fragments of a Russian rocket were tracked in a slow orbit around the Earth. They said the fragments were so low that the attempt had to be a failure, no matter what its objective.

One of the pieces of space trash already has reentered the Earth's atmosphere and disappeared, apparently burned to ashes by the heat of friction, they said. The others also are expected to be short-lived in space.

The scientists said they had "no indication from the objects in orbit" what the purpose of the shot was. But they said it was "highly reasonable" that it was a Venus shot because of the very narrow "time window" available for such attempts.

In space terminology, space window means the period of time in which two bodies are in the correct relation to each other to permit space shots from one to the other.

The scientists said they have been unable to find any Russian object headed for Venus, Mars or any other planet. This discounted, they said, any possibility that the orbiting fragments were parts of a vehicle which had sent a probe toward some other planet.

They said there was no doubt that if the Russians had attempted a Venus probe it had failed.

There was no way to tell from electronic tracking, they said, the precise size or character of the fragments. But one of them appeared to be large enough for telescopic observation and might be a rocket casing.

Fishing Gear Stolen From Car; Loss $50

Henry Sturtevant, 2221 Ivanhoe Dr., Security, reported to the sheriff's office Saturday that fishing gear valued at $50 has been stolen from his car.

Deputy Sheriff Robert Newman said that Sturtevant told him the theft happened sometime between Tuesday and Saturday and he is not sure of the location where the theft occurred.

Kennedy Family Goes for Cruise In Narragansett

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)—President Kennedy took his wife Jacqueline and members of her family for a leisurely cruise Saturday afternoon on Narragansett Bay.

The presidential yacht, the Honey Fitz, sailed from Hammondsmith farm at 12:25 p.m. EST after Kennedy had returned from swimming at fashionable Valley's Beach.

Along for the ride were Mrs. Kennedy's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, and her teen-age half brother and half-sister Janet and Jamie Auchincloss.

The President and his wife and two children were spending the Labor Day weekend at the ocean-front farm owned by Auchincloss.

The first lady, who returned Friday from a gala three-week vacation at Ravello, in southern Italy, wore a bright red sweater, white slacks and a head scarf for the boating trip. Kennedy wore Khaki pants and a leather windbreaker. The President's party had lunch aboard the yacht and undoubtedly were given a full account by the first lady of her adventures in a romantic Ravello where she was made an honorary citizen.

Her daughter Caroline, nearly 5, went to Italy with her mother, stayed at the farm Saturday and played with her brother, John Jr., nearly two years old.

Craftsmen Walk Off Hospital Project

DENVER (AP)—Union craftsmen, except those working on safety measures, Friday walked off the St. Joseph's Hospital building project where a carpenter fell to his death Tuesday.

Bernard H. Doyle, Northern Colorado Construction and Building Trades Council steward, said the men will not return to work until Wednesday and then only if the building site passes a safety inspection Tuesday.

The walk off highlighted action of the council calling for more stringent safety measures on construction jobs in the 22 northern Colorado counties where the council represents union workers.

"We will immediately start a concerted drive on safety to protect the building and construction tradesmen from serious injury and death," R. H. Holton, council secretary-treasurer said.

"We will inspect and insist on correcting any unsafe conditions and we will refuse to let our members work on these jobs until we are satisfied that all safety regulations will be adhered to," Holton added.

Andronicos Sanchez, 48, a carpenter, plunged to death down a 5-story open elevator shaft while working Thursday on the $8 million hospital addition. Earlier this week, Joseph D. Shields, 46, an Englewood pipefitter, was crushed in a ditch cave-in.

Two Killed by Gunman at Coney Island

NEW YORK (UPI)—An unemployed guitar player killed two persons Friday night and ignited a wave of terror through the carnival atmosphere of Brooklyn's Coney Island where crowds of holiday visitors were sent screaming for cover.

The enraged gunman killed a woman and a patrolman and then staged a running battle with police before he was riddled with bullets by a courageous patrolman who donned an armored vest and strode into the path of the killer's gunfire.

Six persons, including two other policemen, were wounded in the wild volley of shots which filled the night air for nearly 40 minutes and provided a grim contrast to the festive sounds of the famed amusement area.

The nightmare began at an apartment building near Coney Island's carnival district, spread onto the boardwalk crowded with strollers and finally ended with the killer's body—punctured by five bullets—sprawled in a gutter puddle of water.

The gunman was identified as John Clark, 27, a goateed guitar player who wore a heavy leg brace. Neighbors told police Clark was unemployed and that he often strummed his guitar in the street for loose change.

The rampage was ended by the courage of emergency squad patrolman Herman Nolan, a seven-childer.

Clark, crouched behind a fire plug, was blasting away with two guns when Nolan put on an armored vest and risked his life in a face-to-face showdown.

Moving directly into the line of Clark's fire, Nolan closed in on the killer, walking down the middle of the street in the manner of a western hero "having it out" with a trigger-happy badman.

Five of Nolan's six shots ripped into Clark and the berserk gunman slumped over dead in the gutter.

West of the front, all the way into the Rockies, a pleasantly mild regime prevailed, marred only by spotty rain across Illinois and Indiana and by isolated thunder showers from the upper Plains into the southern Rockies.

Daytime temperatures climbed past the 90 degree mark over the interior far west and from southern Texas and the Gulf into the middle Atlantic states.

Baltimore, Md. hit a high of 99 degrees which is well above normal for this time of year. Yuma, Ariz. in the hot arid lands of the southwest topped a reading of 111 degrees.

At the cooler extreme, coastal sections of the Pacific Northwest and New England hovered close to 60 degrees thruout the day.

Firing on U.S. Plane Denied in Castro Statement

Hay said Cuban ships had been buzzed, Cuban air space and waters violated and Cuban territory fired upon from Guantanamo Naval Base "hundreds of times."

An armed forces communique charged three U.S. aircraft infringed upon Cuban airspace Thursday and Friday and U.S. soldiers fired five shots "in the direction of our territory" from Guantanamo on Wednesday.

The three alleged air violations, the communique said, were the 14th, 14th and 14th since July 1.

Though Cuban propagandists charged that the alleged firing on the U.S. Navy plane was a cover-up for new invasion plans, actual tension appeared to abate.

The regime ignored unconfirmed reports of new landings by anti-Castro insurgents in central and eastern Cuba.

Havana appeared calm. Nevertheless, Havana traffic policemen carried submachine guns, in addition to their usual arms, and informed sources said Cuban police had stopped accepting applications for Cubans to travel to the United States until further notice.

The action did not appear to affect Cubans who already have permits to leave for the United States. Cubans have been leaving at a rate of 2,000 a week, and there is a four-month backlog of passengers who already have their exit permits.

NEW YORK (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, recovering after the removal Tuesday of an intestinal tumor, continued to improve today.

Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center said, "He had a more restful night and is stronger."

The hospital bulletin said the 88-year-old Republican elder statesman "is getting up for longer intervals and has taken considerable interest in the activities which go on in his room."

His temperature is 99.6, pulse 78, and his blood pressure is normal, the report added.

Park Band Music Fails to Smooth Mobs, Guests

Overnight guests at nearby hotels didn't appreciate the band music that emanated Saturday night from Dorchester Park in South Colorado Springs.

Police said they received telephone complaints of loud music from "a band or radio," and dispatched Officer Cliff Howe of the park police, and Patrolmen Gene Stokes and Robert Gysin to clear up the situation.

The investigating patrolmen reported a group having a party with a brass band.

Police Lt. Herbert Tinsley said that the police officers undoubtedly broke the party if it was disturbing the peace. He declined to comment further on the situation and stated that he had no information as to what band was furnishing the music, or whose party was in progress.

break less than two weeks ago. The latest death was that of W. C. Wilson, 66, of Wildwood, who died Friday night in a Leesburg hospital. Cause of the death was listed as encephalitis, the medical name for the sleeping sickness disease.

Farris said in his statement, "I have been watching very closely the developments concerning the outbreak of encephalitis in the state. While not trying to minimize my concern in this situation, I do not feel that the outbreak should cause us to panic. This problem can only be solved by calm, orderly and deliberate planning."

The disease is carried by birds and transmitted to humans by mosquitoes.

Most of the cases have been in Pinellas (St. Petersburg) County, where a large bird sanctuary is located, and nearly all of those contracting the disease have been elderly persons.

St. Petersburg has long been a favorite vacation spot with the elderly and many of them spend their time sitting in the city's parks feeding the birds.

An around-the-clock effort to stamp out the mosquitoes that are transmitting the disease is underway and will continue despite the Labor Day holiday.

While urging a calm approach to the problem, Bryant also disclosed that the U. S. Public Health Service had assigned three of its leading experts to assist in the fight.

Bryant, whose office has been swamped with calls from concerned citizens, said all local and state agencies also are being asked to render maximum cooperation to stamp out the cause of the illness.

"I know that all of those participating in reaching the solution will approach it on a calm, deliberate basis and can depend on the full cooperation of all our citizens," he said.

2,000 Children Evacuated From Volcanic Island

TOKYO (AP)—Children of Miyakejima picked up knapsacks and canteens and sailed to safety today from their smoke-shrouded, lava-seared volcanic island.

More than 2,000 grade and junior high school students were moved to Tokyo by eight Japanese vessels that put into the boiling sea of what is left of Miyakejima Island's harbor.

The children were taken to friends in Tokyo, 120 miles to the north, and in neighboring Chiba prefecture. A special school will be opened for them in Tateyama City next week.

Of Miyakejima's 6,700 people, the mass evacuation raised to about 3,000 those who have left to escape the fury of Mt. Oyama. That volcanic peak erupted Aug. 24, sending out rivulets of lava and coating the island with ash and stone.

The four main craters of the volcano raised the level of the entire mountain like a hydraulic lift picking up a cardboard carton. Boulders rolled down to the harbor, crushing everything in their path.

The volcano is still rumbling and smoking. Seventy-five earth tremors were recorded in a 24-hour period ended at noon today.

About 30 persons have been injured. Police estimate the property damage, including destruction of 11 homes, at nearly $400,000.

Most of Miyakejima's people are seaweed fishermen and rice farmers. The older islanders recall that Mt. Oyama's last great eruption, in July 1940, lasted 12 days.

Youthful Escapee From Hospital Hunted

Law enforcement agencies of the Pikes Peak Region were searching Saturday night for a 15-year-old escapee with suicidal tendencies from the John Emory Brady Hospital, 419 Southgate Rd.

Officials of the sheriff's office reported that Robert Herrin, 1802 Cheyenne Rd., escaped from the hospital at 3 p.m. Friday.

Authorities said that the youth left a suicide note, and was last seen wearing tan pants and a yellow shirt.

A brother Michael Herrin, in the Seven Falls District, had been notified of the youth's disappearance, and has been asked to be on the lookout for him.

The annual Dollars for Democrats drive will be staged in El Paso County Sept. 15-Oct. 6, it was announced Saturday by Chairman Don Brinton.

Brinton said solicitation will be conducted by precinct committeemen and women under the direction of area leaders. One-third of the funds collected will go to the county Democratic organization, one-third to the state and another third to national headquarters.

This year's drive chairman is an American history teacher at Watsson High School who also teaches an adult Sunday school class at First Methodist Church. He is married and has five children.

Brinton, 35, has lived here 10 years. He said the fact that the Democrats are out - numbered by Republicans in El Paso County is not strange to him because he comes from another traditionally Republican area at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Brinton added Mrs. Lucille Guthrie to the list of area leaders Saturday. Others are Paul Bechtel, Vera Kester, Helen Burkepile, Ruth S. Davis, Ralph J. Streamer, Ruth Smith and Gerald L. Jones.

The 1,268 members of First Southern Baptist Church of Colorado Springs have been invited to be the guests of the Men's Brotherhood at a Wild Game Barbecue Friday at the Southern Baptist Camp, 20 miles north of Colorado Springs off the Denver highway and north of the Douglas County road.

Successful hunters of the group have volunteered to supply the meat for the varied menu, and Edwin Wagner, retired chef, and his wife will prepare the viand. Barbecued beef will also enhance the menu for those whose preference is for the domestic. Serving to begin at 6:15 p.m., is expected to be "chuck wagon" style.

This is the second event of its kind to be held by the church since the purchase of the 1.43-acre site for an assembly ground by the Colorado Southern Baptist Association, in 1960. The first game dinner was suggested when Edward Albin Dockery, son of the present Brotherhood president, Erby E. Dockery, joined the Navy, and left the first fruits of his first deer hunt at the discretion of his parents, who supplied most of the ingredients for the original. The fellowship enjoyed the first time by a limited group encouraged the Brotherhood to enlarge the invitation to encompass the entire church membership.

The Maryland State House in Annapolis is the oldest state house now in use in the United States. It was used in 1779, while the Revolutionary War was in progress.

Blueprint for Recovery

A challenge to show courage to match the title of his book "Pro-files of Courage" has been tossed to Big Brother John F. Kennedy. E. C. Harwood, director of the American Institute for Economic Research at Great Barrington, Mass., has written an open letter to President Kennedy to outline the institute's proposals for returning the United States to fiscal sanity.

We are fearful that the letter will never reach the eyes of Mr. Kennedy or if it does the Harvard and London School of Economics-trained young man in the White House will be unwilling to see the logic behind the statements. Among other recommendations, Harwood urges JFK to quit heeding the "outmoded notions of Keynesian economists," and this is highly unlikely unless there are enough Americans who become alert to show the political will.

Lists Instead of Reading

So many students are seeking a book list that will guide them correctly in their reading habits, that they tend to concentrate on making a habit of listing the books and some of them never get to read a single book they have listed.

Other Questions Not Answered

Our Family Weekly supplement an abused and underpaid group today contains an article by Virginia Burgess Warren about our government school system. We think our readers should go over it carefully to see if the statements made by the authors seem to coincide with their own experience.

The item is called: "10 Questions Parents Ask Most Often About School." It purports to be the most frequently asked questions taken from a list of some 700.

To our view, neither the questions and the answers given are, in the main, the most often heard questions nor are the answers given necessarily the right ones. And since the whole material was provided by the National Education Association we believe we are safe in suggesting that a possibility exists the entire article and the space provided are merely an effort on the part of NEA to obtain some favorable publicity for itself.

Take question one: "Why doesn't my child learn the alphabet?" Now, that's an honest question. The answer provided, however, explains why the child DOES learn the alphabet. The answer is not germane to the question. What of the many times this question is asked, simply because the parents discover to their astonishment that their young hopefuls, sometimes even as far advanced as high school, have never yet learned the proper order for the letters we use in English composition?

But perhaps the intellectual desert which our children have been crossing may now find an oasis. For the answer includes this statement: "... you may discover from his teacher that he actually is learning them, or soon will be. ... This might just mean that the NEA has finally decided to permit a teaching of the alphabet to occur again. It is a matter of common experience, however, that for the preceding decade or two, children did NOT learn the alphabet. Further, the reason was that the schools had adopted a weird, new system of teaching reading which virtually eliminated the meaning of letters, the use of phonics and a host of other devices whose usefulness is not in question.

We have no objection to question two, so far as it goes. It calls for an answer based upon opinion, and in this respect, persons may have varying opinions, all of them valid to some degree. We'll pass it.

A more basic question which might have been asked could have been: "Is it the belief of the government school people that increased taxation will automatically result in better teaching? If so, why?"

We would have been fascinated with the answer provided. Particularly when the evidence now available shows that the teaching profession has charted raises in pay totalling more than 122 percent since 1944. Today, teachers are in many instances drawing down pay which for nine months is larger than the sums commanded by bank presidents, scientists and even bartenders.

The facts are that teachers are among the best paid of America's public servants. But to listen to the propaganda from this same NEA, one would think they were

Red China, Be Seated

By HARRY BROWNE

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has just signed a report for the American Association for the United Nations, calling upon us to support Red China's admission to the UN. Should we—or shouldn't we?

Each year, the UN turns down the Communists' request for Red China's admittance. Since the UN Charter calls for the inclusion of "peace-loving nations," the UN members have always excluded Mao Tse-tung's murderers.

After all, the Chinese Communists waged undeclared war against the UN in Korea, they have violated India's border, and have continually harassed Formosa and the off-shore islands. In addition, they have made it absolutely clear that their promises and word are worthless.

So let's keep Red China out. But wait a minute!

If the UN self-righteously excludes China—because of attacks against India—then we'd better kick out India for what they've done to Goa. That wasn't "peace-loving."

And Indonesia's threats against Dutch West New Guinea should disqualify Indonesia from further membership.

And while we're at it, what about the grand tyrant of them all—the Soviet Union with its slave empire? Was the invasion and slaughter in Hungary "peace-loving?"

It is a mockery of truth and principle to allow any of the Communist countries—or India—or Indonesia—to sit among "peace-loving" nations. If the UN is ever to have any moral or legal effect upon the world, it should expel the hypocrites that are within it.

But come to think of it—there's another aggressor that should be punished and expelled: the UN itself. Its military invasion of Katanga was aggression and savagery of the worst sort.

How can the UN possibly promote peace or exist for "peace-loving" nations, when it is itself a war-maker?

In fact, the more you think of it, the more you realize that Red China would be very much at home among the barbarians who currently make up the UN.

But that kind of an environment is certainly no place for people who really do love freedom and sincerely desire to live in a world of peace. Americans should demand that our government withdraw from the UN immediately.

Without the millstone of the UN around our neck, we could wage an honest diplomatic and economic offensive that would topple the Communist tyranny and restore real peace and freedom.

Congressman James B. Utt of California, has introduced a bill—H.R. 8567—to revoke our membership in the UN. It deserves your support—because our future as an independent sovereign nation depends upon its passage. Write Mr. Utt, House Office Building, Washington 25, D.C., over a week-end and make enough money to make the enterprise worthwhile.

Under the oppressive restrictions of government, anyone who engaged in such an enterprise would be in violation of two or more laws. Because of the location, he would be violating federal law. Because of state licenses and restrictions and controls placed upon the vending of bottles or cold drinks prepared at home, the person involved would be in violation of one or more state laws.

The cost of complying with the various provisions of federal law would make any attempt to engage in this enterprise foolish and frustrating, not to mention the additional county and state laws which would affect this situation.

I understand one of the immediate reactions which the foregoing will evoke from the minds of those who believe that government should control every action of human beings: Do you believe that people should be permitted to sell products which might of themselves or because of the manner of the vending endanger the health of other people? The answer to this is quite obvious. With all of the controls placed upon caterers of food products, manufacturers of food products, and vendors of all types, people do become poisoned from time to time and on a per capita basis the chances are the frequency of such occurrences are greater now than in the past.

No matter what field of endeavor is engaged in, certain human beings will be careless and their carelessness will have unpleasant repercussions. It is important to understand at this point that government also is composed of human beings, who make mistakes, either through carelessness or stupidity, and that the chances for error are increased in direct relation to the number of people involved with any particular situation.

There is another important point that must be considered, and that is that no one would be compelled to buy, and that any merchant who deals regularly in shoddy merchandise does not remain in business very long.

"There's Nothing to It When You Have Friends."

Benefits of Freedom

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, Ph.D. are compelled to follow certain precepts laid down by the Health Department. The Health Department issues cards which may state that this is a Class A or Class AA establishment, and this supposedly provides the clients of the eating establishment with the guarantee of adequate protection for their health.

I have eaten in a place which boasts of a top rating and have looked into the kitchen. An old lighting fixture hangs from the ceiling and it is covered with grease and dirt, which hangs in festoons from this electrical apparatus. The kitchen itself appeared to be reasonably clean, but it is entirely possible for some and fewer content with slavery of the freedom of one man next, place into the food being carried or infringes upon the freedom of to an unwary client. Where such another man. My freedom ends a condition persists over a period of almost two years, it is the beginning of yours.

Relief from restriction brings dittos also exist. A few blocks away there is an creative thinking. We live in a relatively this second restaurant is immaculate. The entire establishment is clean products and services which sparkling clean, and it would be not be readily available—as, most difficult for the food sold for example, the fact that no cold here to become contaminated drinks of any kind are available thru carelessness.

Purely by accident I overheard a conversation between a lady and man who were eating in the first-mentioned restaurant. The lady called the attention of her male companion to the item mentioned here. Her companion said, "Well, evidently the Health Department thinks it is O.K. and they wouldn't give them that good card."

Only a few miles from here a young couple built by hand a small shed and counter and went into the business of selling bottled soft drinks designed to assuage the thirst of hot and dusty travellers. Please keep in mind that these are bottled soft drinks and that there are no cups or other drinking utensils provided by the small enterprise. The Health Department decided that it is interesting that the crime rate too has been increasing faster than the population. According to the just-published FBI report for 1961, the U.S. population increased 7 percent over the past five years, the crime rate went up 34 percent. ## The Welfare State's Seamy Side

From The Wall Street Journal

Whenever people speak of the "welfare state," whether they are for or against it, they usually think of it as something that may come to the U.S. in some indefinite future.

But in truth the welfare state isn't lurking somewhere over tomorrow's horizon. It is here right now, and growing fast. Now may be this is what people in this country want, and maybe they even think they want more of the apparent benefits it brings. If it is, it's only right that they take a hard look at what they've got. And if it isn't what they want, now is the time to decide what they propose to do about it, as late as the time is.

Just how late it has gotten to be is suggested by a tabulation of the growth of public social welfare expenditures published by the First National City Bank of New York in its current "Monthly Economic Letter." That it does not include everything that might be called public welfare, it offers cost comparisons of social insurance, public assistance, health and medical care, veterans' care and compensation, vocational rehabilitation, etc., between the fiscal years 1950 and 1961.

Such public welfare expenditures for 1960 were $13.8 billion. For 1961, $37.3 billion. That's an increase of 170 per cent. Well, to be sure, it may be argued, during that period the nation's population was increasing pretty fast, and welfare needs with it. But the fact is, in that period the population gained 20 per cent. Welfare expenditures grew more than eight times as fast.

The administrative machinery needed to distribute all those billions grew pretty fast, too. For instance, in the category of public assistance, the 1950-61 expenditures rose 69 per cent. But administrative expenses climbed 157 per cent.

Yet those huge financial outlays which are plainly on the record do not reflect the social cost of the growing welfare state. There are, for instance, the unsavory abuses of welfare handouts. Where they have been put on the record—as in Washington, D.C.—they make sorry reading. There, federal investigators checking at random on parents drawing relief payments for dependent children recently found that 58 per cent of 187 recipients visited weren't eligible for such relief. They were brazenly chiseling.

The Washington sampling required tedious detective work. Welfare workers generally say they have no time for gumshoeing about in search of welfare cheats: no record shows, nobody really knows, how much chiseling is going on thruout the nation. But there's no denying that the bigger the welfare handouts become the greater the number of welfare abuses.

Not only that kind of abuse, there is clearly some relationship between the growth of welfare and the growth of the crime rate. It stands to reason that subsidized idleness cannot help but encourage shiftlessness and crime which in turn results in still higher welfare costs as more and more people go on some sort of dole, which in turn breeds more crime. Whatever the exact relationship it is interesting that the crime rate too has been increasing faster than the population. # Open Letter to President Kennedy

The President
The White House
Washington, D.C.
Dear Mr. President:

A little more than a year ago we wrote to you an open letter in which we said: "In your book, 'Profiles in Courage,' you reveal admiration of Senator Lamar's political courage. As one example you cite his stand in the mid-1870's on the question of more inflation as a supposed remedy for a depression versus deflation and restoration of a currency redeemable in gold. By an interesting coincidence, unless we are seriously mistaken, you are or soon will be in a situation similar to that in which Senator Lamar found himself."

Few people seemed to realize a year ago how soon the Nation might be confronted with the prospect of a severe recession. In view of recent developments in the financial markets, however, the significance of the sentences quoted above presumably will be more apparent.

We hope you will understand the message is not a boastful "we told you so." The situation is far too serious, the threat to the very survival of our Nation is much too great for such considerations to be entertained. We do not exult in the serious losses already incurred by many, nor do we find satisfaction in the disasters that a depression would bring, regardless of how fully such developments confirm the usefulness of our earlier analyses. And we feel sure that you would not disparage these efforts to bring to your attention useful results of research that has extended over four decades. Therefore, we reproduce below some additional paragraphs from the earlier open letter to you.

"As was the situation in 1873, the United States is beginning to experience the aftermath of prolonged inflation begun in time of depression, greatly augmented during World War II, and continued in postwar years. In Senator Lamar's day the proponents of still more inflation were clamoring for the 'easy money' way out of depression problems. Today the Keynesian economists are providing the rationalization for similar pleas that the government attempt to restore prosperity by still more inflating."

"The panacea proposed by the Keynesians is a continuation of policies followed for two decades, policies directly responsible for the situation in which we now find ourselves. The monetizing of Government debt during World War II created a huge amount of inflationary purchasing media, much of which was hoarded at first by the early recipients, because the things they wanted to buy were not available."

"During the postwar years, the inflationary purchasing media have been disbursed gradually, and some of the increasing private noncommercial debt has been monetized, thereby creating more inflationary purchasing media. Each successive postwar recession has been cut short by the continued disbursement of inflationary purchasing media created during World War II and by further inflation derived from monetizing Treasury deficits and increasing private noncommercial debt."

"In each instance, the short-run consequence, quick recovery to boom levels, has been what the Keynesians and many of the Nation's best informed economists have expected. However, the Keynesians have been blind to the longer run consequences, whereas many leading money-credit economists and our own organization have correctly foreseen those consequences, which now confront the Nation."

"The great inflation of the past two decades has shifted about $200,000,000,000 worth of assets from the Nation's thrifty citizens and from endowed institutions in addition to an incalculable but perhaps even larger amount from all whose incomes have been relatively fixed (such as retired individuals and teachers) to those who have benefited from inflation's progress. One of the chief beneficiaries has been the Government, whose tax revenues have increased greatly; other beneficiaries have been the holders of monopoly privileges including labor as well as numerous others."

"Thus have been fostered dreams of an affluent society able to afford global foreign aid, costly Government intervention in agriculture with accompanying waste of resources, and expansion of business enterprises without sufficient consideration of costs here compared with those abroad. In these and other ways too numerous to list, economic growth has been retarded and the Nation's economy has been seriously distorted."

"Now the consequences of past money-credit follies confront us. Some Keynesian economists urge that the disciplinary warnings of the gold outflow be disregarded; a few even urge that gold be discarded from the Nation's money-credit system. They recommend more inflation by monetizing more Government debt. Although some Keynesians favor more spending, others favor tax reductions; but the basic notion is the same, i.e., that Government deficits should be monetized to restore prosperity. For the educated person who has not been trained as an economic scientist, the situation must indeed be puzzling. Among the Keynesians are some of the Nation's best known economists whose academic positions and professional offices seem almost to be a guarantee of their competence. How is one to decide when the doctors disagree, especially when one finds on the side of the inflationists several economists in one of the Nation's most venerable and respected universities as well as others in a leading scientific institution?"

"No doubt, you will be subjected to great pressure to foster more inflation. In addition to the dedicated Keynesians convinced that their nostrum is a useful remedy, various pressure groups will clamor for what they think will promote their interest. Labor leaders who can see only the short-run benefits of more increases in wages instead of decreased wage rates in some industries, speculators in real estate and stocks (especially those speculating on thin margins), bankers whose investment-type assets are excessive and largely frozen, and others who hope to gain from more inflation or fear to lose if deflation occurs will join in the clamor. And adding their not inconsiderable bit will be many intellectuals whose education cultivated verbal facility but failed to make them wary of perpetual-motion schemes such as those proposed by the Keynesian inflationists."

"To resist the pressures that will be brought to bear on you will require political courage of a high order."

"We do not imply that on you rests the sole responsibility for choosing a wise course of action. Congress has a responsibility even greater than yours, because Congress makes the laws you are to enforce. And in the background, carrying the final and inescapable responsibility, stand the independent, informed minority of citizens who constitute the balance of political power in a republic such as the United States."

Outline for a Solution

During the crisis that lies ahead, the United States will be forced to make an important choice. The alternatives will be:

1. To continue inflating without regard to the loss of gold, thereby risking an internal flight from the dollar and economic collapse; or,

2. To deflate, rapidly or gradually, and thus restore balanced internal and external economic relationships.

Choosing the first alternative would reflect continued acceptance of the economic advice responsible for the Nation's present plight. Inflation involves a terrible price in the long run, and presentation of at least part of the bill seems not far distant.

Choosing the second alternative would reflect acceptance of economic advice from those who have repeatedly warned of the dangers of inflating.

Have the American people enough common sense to refuse to accept any more advice from those responsible for the present situation, will the Nation's citizens, instead seek advice from the economists who have continually opposed the "perpetual motion" notions of the "creeping" and other inflationists? We don't pretend to know the answer to this question; only the citizens, or the better informed minority who hold the balance of political power, can provide the answer. All that we can do is outline a possible solution to the present problem, not an easy, painless remedy, because we know of none, but one that should provide a way out.

1. In order to prevent a "run on the dollar," the Government should reassure its foreign creditors that another devaluation will not be undertaken. Mere words of reassurance will not be enough, however, governments invariably issue such reassuring statements before a devaluation is accomplished. Actions rather than words will be required, as follows:

a. The Treasury should continue to pay out gold on demand to foreign creditors, but they should be informed that licenses for gold withdrawals (the means by which the outflow can be controlled) will be limited to such amounts as will not jeopardize the United States by depleting its essential war and emergency reserves. (The exact rate of outflow, perhaps $100,000,000 per month or some such amount, should be no more than can be continued without danger during the interim period discussed below.)

b. Foreign creditors should also be informed that their demand claims on gold will be honored in the order received. Most of the short-term foreign claims now are invested in Treasury bills, savings accounts, or other interest-bearing obligations. Foreign creditors who desire to withdraw the gold they are entitled to would have to convert such short-term investments to demand claims on dollars (i.e., to currency or demand deposits) and present those claims to the Treasury for payment. Thus on all claims presented for payment, foreign creditors would forfeit their interest earnings. This is the price they would pay for an earlier place in the waiting line, and presumably that would reduce the amount of claims presented for immediate payment.

c. The United States should authorize and announce a return to the gold standard with full redeemability of currency according to the promise on the face of it at the end of an interim period, perhaps 5 to 10 years in the future. Congressional action

"The Institute's responsibility is to continue research such as that which has provided the scientific warranty for the assertions herein, and to inform every citizen who will trouble to read what we publish. We propose to increase the number thus educated as rapidly as possible beyond the half-million present readers of our principal publications. Research and the widest possible dissemination of the results thereof comprise the extent of our responsibility. On thoughtful, informed citizens will rest the responsibility for indicating to professional politicians the direction chosen by the Nation's independent balance-of-power minority."

Turning now from our earlier letter, at this time we should emphasize that the Keynesian economists evidently have been seriously mistaken. Your Council of Economic Advisers predicted in their Annual Economic Report last January that the Nation would experience "strong and sustained expansion" of business activity in the months ahead. That has not occurred. Moreover, more than a decade ago, the Chairman of the Council participated in preparing recommendations to West Germany that fortunately were discarded in favor of a diametrically opposite course of action that accounted for the "miracle" of West Germany's recovery and economic growth.

The situation is similar to one that occurred in the practice of medicine. Decades after Dr. Semmelweis' research had revealed the cause of puerperal fever, mothers were still dying in childbirth because of the delayed acceptance of the results of scientific inquiry. For the many families involved those were great personal tragedies, but they are insignificant in comparison to the consequences that must follow failure to apply scientific inquiry to economic problems. fore the Great Depression of the 1930's the results of extensive scientific research were available. Many published articles not only correctly analyzed the situation before the panic of 1929 but also predicted the consequences of unsound fiscal and monetary panaceas intended to restore prosperity during the 1930's."

During and since World War II the worst economic blunders made during World War I and in the 1920's have been repeated, some on an even larger scale. The obvious consequences are numerous economic distortions that hinder economic growth and are reflected in the gold problem, excessive unemployment, and the recent panic in the stock markets. Again the Institute's continued research has revealed the nature and extent of the principal economic blunders."

To disregard the work of economic scientists and rely instead on the outmoded notions of Keynesian economists, regardless of how impressive their academic credentials may seem, would be to repeat the fatuous blundering of the 1930's that left nearly 10,000,000 still unemployed in 1939. Such action would parallel that of the medical doctors who, in the pride of their academic and professional distinctions, refused to learn from the scientific inquiry that revealed the cause of puerperal fever. But in the present instance, instead of death for a relatively few individuals, the consequences could be catastrophic for millions of people and perhaps would imperil survival of our Nation, or survival of those aspects of our Nation that once made the United States the hope of the world."

Socialism on the Potomac

By SHERMAN ROGERS

It has been whispered in some circles that Dr. Arthur M. Schlesinger is a "pro-Communist." This is not true. In the Partisan Review, May-June 1947, he makes it crystal clear that he bitterly opposes the Russian, Chinese, and Cuban brand of totalitarian or despotic socialism. The then professor of history at Harvard espoused "libertarian socialism" designed to make the change from capitalism to socialism gradually by due process of law and with full respect for the rights of the individual.

Dr. Schlesinger, who is now Assistant to the President of the United States, began his frank article by declaring: "Neither communism with its despotism, nor capitalism with its instability, nor fascism with its 'combination of the two, provides attractive solutions to the problem of how to live with modern industry and the modern state. Is there another possibility? Has non-Communist libertarian socialism a future? Abstracting the question for a moment from current political realities, we must answer that there is no inherent reason why democratic socialism should not be possible. If socialism (i.e., the ownership by the state of all significant means of production) is to preserve democracy, it must be brought about step by step in a way which will not disrupt the fabric of custom, law, and mutual confidence, upon which personal rights depend."

Dr. Schlesinger referred to the New Deal as having laid the groundwork for socialism. He wrote: "Time seems no inherent obstacle to the gradual advance of socialism in the United States through a series of New Deals." The author then explained that while the British had been persuaded by experience, the American business community continues to resist the radical democracy like a drowning man thrashes out at his rescuer. In so doing, it may destroy the possibility of a peaceful transition to socialism."

The author repeatedly expressed an intolerance of American business leadership and the business community. At one point he wrote: "Not only does the bourgeoisie lack the skill to protect itself, it is increasingly lacking in the will to protect itself." And a few moments later he added: "The foreign policy of the business community is characterized in terms of cowardice rationalized in terms of high morality. The great refusal to take on Russia today is perfectly typical."

If the reader is surprised at the warlike attitude of one who declares violence, Mr. Schlesinger supplied the reason a few paragraphs later: "The crime of the USSR against the world is its determination to make experiments in libertarian socialism impossible."

For his proposed socialist society, Dr. Schlesinger apparently ignores the farmer, and takes a dim view of labor. "The beginnings of the trade union organization at one time may have promised a serious future for an organized proletariat. But there is no point in keeping up the pretense a century later. In a socialist society its functions are radically transformed. It becomes not a free movement, but a labor front. . . . Unions inevitably become organs for the discipline of workers, not for representing them."

Then, somewhat reminiscent of the mood in which Karl Marx spoke of religion as "the opium of the people," Dr. Schlesinger said that the workers "too often believe in patriotism or religion, or read comic books, go to the movies, play slot machines and patronize dance halls. In one way or another they try to cure their discontent by narcotics rather than surgery."

Later Dr. Schlesinger launched into and expanded his belief in the "intellectual" as the person who can lead us forces necessary to effect the change from capitalism, gradually, to socialism. He wrote: "If you say that the intellectual is a fraud upon which to lean, you are probably guilty of understatement. But at least serious thinking is his business. He is more likely to escape from his confusion than the capitalist from his irresponsibility; or the worker from his impotence."

Stating that intellectual leadership may avert a war with Russia, the author added: "If we can avert this war, if we can contain the counter-revolution of the USSR within clearly marked limits, we have a good chance to test the possibilities of a peaceful transition into a not undemocratic socialism."

Dr. Schlesinger was greatly concerned with our international policy in dealing with Russia via containment. He wrote: "But over a long term, the United States cannot develop a dependence on the right, if only because the right is a bad investment. A program of containment requires a ring of stable and satisfied countries around Russia — countries whose internal well-being provides a first line of defense against Communist penetration. At this stage of the world's history, the right cannot provide such a guarantee."

Here is where Dr. Schlesinger, dedicated to his belief in "libertarian socialism," vastly underestimated the untiring and stabilizing power of honestly administered private enterprise. We refer to the case of West Germany with its conservative, capitalistic government.

At the close of the war, the great industrial centers of West Germany were a mass of rubble, its banks empty, its people ruined and bewildered, and its war leaders so completely discredited that to rebuild the confidence of its people and the world in a German government was a Herculean task.

In 1949 a constituent assembly adopted a strong Constitution for West Germany and Konrad Adenauer was chosen Chancellor. Mr. Adenauer had to choose between the socialist left as economic plan from several nations, including ours, advised him to do, or turn to the conservative right. The Chancellor chose the conservative right and excluded the Social Democrats (SPD) from appointive office.

Mr. Adenauer's first step was to encourage investment capital, both foreign and domestic, to aid German reconstruction. The new government greeted employers and investors as valued friends, as industrial and community builders, as payroll creators, as prosperity producers and as respected and woefully needed taxpayers. It accelerated construction tenfold by granting a depreciation of 20 per cent per year on machinery and plants. This farseeing action attracted billions of dollars for the construction of vital new manufacturing plants which in turn created millions of jobs.

On some machinery the German government allowed as much as 50 per cent depreciation. The incentive to new investment and construction was instant and powerful. Billions of dollars for commercial investment rolled into Germany from all parts of the world, including the United States. This added hundreds of millions of dollars to the property tax accounts of West German community treasuries.

The powerful German Socialist Party (SPD) finally entered into the changed national picture. It repudiated nationalization, and a year later called upon its members to acquire property and take whatever means were necessary to defend the country in case of war.

In this atmosphere of new-born national integrity and full-fledged personal liberty created by a conservative government, the German people in 11 short years have advanced from destruction and poverty to the most stable, prosperous and fully employed nation of all Europe.

The Common Market Not a Free Market

By REV. I. E. HOWARD

A recent newspaper cartoon showed a housewife turning from her paper to say to her husband: "Why don't we fly to Europe? There might be some bargains at the Common Market."

The Common Market is very much in the news and very often misunderstood. In the first place, the Common Market is not a free market, nor does it represent a step in the direction of free trade. The classic example of free trade is nineteenth century Great Britain who reduced her tariff barriers unilaterally. There is no thought of the Common Market doing this. The Common Market is a trading area including West Germany, Netherlands, Belgium, France, Luxembourg, and Italy in which internal restraints on trade are being reduced gradually while a uniform tariff against all nations outside the Common Market is created. The forerunner of this economic venture was the coal and steel cartel established in 1951 by the same six nations. Cartel thinking, not free market economics, is the guiding philosophy of the Common Market.

In the second place, the Common Market is not a mere economic association, but, from the first, has been a step in the direction of political union. Maurice Schuman, Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French National Assembly has said: "The road on which we are now engaged must lead rapidly to the political union of Europe."

Common Market members differ on the degree of political integration they wish. France wants a loose federal association of sovereign powers, and Belgium wants a strong centralized political super-state. Whatever the degree of political integration finally achieved, the Common Market is already a political entity. Some have compared it to Charlemagne's Empire and, if the countries now applying for membership — Great Britain, Austria, Switzerland, Greece, and others — are added, this new politico-economic unit will begin to look like the Roman Empire revived.

Whatever its political significance, so far, the Common Market has been a tremendous success economically. In its present form, it represents a mass market of 170,000,000 people which is almost the size of the United States market. Both trade within the Common Market area and trade with nations outside the Common Market has increased and this success has caused the leaders to shorten the time table for complete integration.

The political structure of the European Economic Community — its technical name — is somewhat like our own, having a Council of Ministers as its executive department, a General Assembly as its legislative body, and a Court of Justice for its judiciary.

The Court of Justice has already tested its power. Italy, finding its markets flooded with foreign pork, restricted imports of that article. Last year, a suit was brought against Italy before the Court of Justice of the EEC because of this import restriction. Lawyers for the Italian Government argued that it was the right of any sovereign government to protect itself and its people. However, on the basis of the treaty which the Italian Government had signed when entering the Common Market, the Court of Justice rejected this argument and found Italy guilty.

In our own country, the Kennedy Administration has seized upon the Common Market as justification for a new approach to foreign trade. This new approach will give the executive department of our government power to negotiate tariff reductions by 50 per cent, power to remove some tariffs altogether, and power to subsidize companies which may be hurt by tariff reduction. Opponents of this proposal point out that, in our Constitutional system, it has been the function of Congress, not the President, to regulate tariff. Furthermore, opponents question if tariff reduction will remedy our unfavorable balance of payments as promised by those who favor this proposal.

The gold outflow, which is distressing many observers, is not the result of an unfavorable balance of trade. Last year, for example, we exported $30 billion of goods and imported $15 billion. However, despite this, our gold continued to flow out. Why? Because of our tremendous foreign aid program and the cost of supporting troops and other military activities abroad. These measures pumped American dollars into foreign countries which dollars came back as claims upon gold. Tariff reduction will not touch these causes of the gold flow.

Moreover, tariffs are no longer the real impediments to trade. Not only are our tariffs at a thirty year low and lower than the world average, but the most effective barriers to international trade are quotas, import fees, international cartels, dumping subsidies, and currency conversion difficulties.

In addition to these external restraints, there are the internal trade barriers, such as agricultural subsidies and price supports, monopolistic labor union power, discriminatory regulation of business by State and Federal Government, unfavorable depreciation allowances, government sponsored inflation, and government manipulation of the money rates. These things discourage economic activity far more than any tariff wall!

Whatever may be said for the

Concerning Censorship

From Christian Economics

No one who respects the Constitution and understands our form of government questions the right and duty of the Administration to formulate foreign policy. Once this is done, there is no doubt about the obligation resting upon the officers and men of our armed forces to carry out this policy. Our difference with Washington is not that it enforces this necessity and proper discipline, but rather with the policies it has laid down. As civilians we are privileged to criticize these policies. That is not true of officers in the armed forces when speaking in public. These men may properly reason with a protest to their superiors, but they may not publicly challenge or oppose the competent authorities of our government."

We believe the government is wrong in its soft, protective attitude of refusing to permit any criticism of Communist governments. Just how wrong the Administration is in this matter may be seen from the following passages that have been "blue penciled" by censors in addresses military men were planning to deliver. (These quotations have been taken from a report prepared by the Special Preparedness Subcommittee and printed in the Congressional Record, Feb. 19, 1962, by direction of Senator Strom Thurmond, and may be secured by writing to Senator Thurmond, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., asking for a reprint of the title, "Senator Thurmond Presents Anti-Communist Items Censored from Military Statements.")

The censors struck from an address to be delivered by Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau the following passage:

"I, for one, do not believe that the Soviets have relented in the slightest in their determination to dominate the world and to destroy our way of life."

"Such is the nature of communism, and against it we can mount only eternal vigilance for our security and positive measures to neutralize Soviet advances. We must not be lulled into a false sense of security, no matter what the tactics."

The censors deleted from a speech prepared by Maj. Gen. John W. Carpenter, III the following passage:

"There is no reason to believe that the communist conspiracy will abandon its goal of world domination; or alter the basic strategy contrived to attain that goal."

Maj. Gen. N. W. Grant prepared a speech referring to Khrushchev in the following terms:

"Nevertheless, in his written statements and in other talks, he has indicated that the Soviet Union intends to bury us literally, rather than figuratively."

The State Department censors deleted the above passage with the comment, "This is against policy."

Maj. Gen. T. C. Darcy, in making some comment on Khrushchev, wrote:

Georgia Goodbar Co-Chairman Here For DU Program

Mrs. Georgia M. Goodbar, 728 N. Foote Ave., has been named Colorado Springs area co-chairman by the University of Denver for its $25 million Program for New Resources.

An alumnae of the University of Denver, she will be in charge of enlisting alumni support for the program. She is one of 178 area chairmen throughout the country serving as volunteer leaders.

Since the program was publicly announced last October, the University of Denver has raised over $10 million toward its $25 million goal.

The total to date includes over $6 million that qualifies for a massive grant from the Ford Foundation. The Foundation will give the University of Denver $5 million if the University can raise $10 million from other non-governmental sources by June of 1963.

Many of the contributions are the largest ever made by their donors to any cause. Among these were gifts to establish the first four endowed chairs in metallurgy, the humanities, economics and finance in the University's history.

"We have set our sights high because the demands for excellence are high," said John Evans, Jr., general chairman of the campaign. "As the only private, independent university in the 13 state Rocky Mountain West, the University of Denver feels a special responsibility to maintain standards of excellence."

The University of Denver was one of only six private universities chosen by the Ford Foundation for massive challenge grants. Others were Stanford, Notre Dame, Vanderbilt, Johns Hopkins, and Brown. The selection was made on the basis of academic achievement, importance to the region, and long range development plans.

An earlier announcement that Joseph A. Reich had accepted the Colorado Springs chairmanship was in error.

Rock Climbing Show Monday to End Season

Military mountaineers from Ft. Carson will take to the rocks for their last public demonstration at 10:30 a.m. Monday Labor Day, in North Cheyenne Canon.

Actual count of spectators for the 1962 summer season has been 9,670 with four shows cancelled because of Exercise Swift Strike II and a few rain puts.

Since most of these were tourists and military visitors, the 5th Division Noncommissioned Officers Academy agreed to forfeit their holiday to give military and civilian residents an opportunity to see the region's most thrilling presentation.

It will do double duty by keeping up to 1,000 persons off the highways on what will be a fatal day for many travelers planning only a farewell to summer.

Narrating the action in the amphitheater halfway up the canon wall will be 1st Lt. Evan Marshall and M. Sgt. Julius Denning. Platoon Sgt. Gaines C. Roberts will be stage demonstrator.

Spec. 1 Charles Prane, truck driver, will open the show by scaling the rocks by vertical hauling line with sgt. 1 C. Harold E. Caldwell and Pvt. John A. Miller at the A-frame above. Climbers have many military skills, most have learned the military mountaineering for the 1962 demonstrations.

Caldwell is the only El Paso County native on the academy teams.

Maneuvering on the fixed rope will be S. Sgt. Gene Hoyt and Spec. 4 Robert Linstedt followed by Prane and Spec. 4 Robert Brown in the 2-man party climb.

While action continues directly in front of the audience, Spec. 4 Gerald Whiting and Pfc. Dale Messerly will begin the 400-foot pinnacle climb across the canon wearing white clothing as they scale the sheer cliffs.

Pfc. Harold Bentley will navigate the two-rope bridge on which Spec. 4 Paul Latona, a cook, plays a comic act as a cook.

Latona stars again as the litter patient who slides above the crowd in litter evacuation with a pause in the center that always draws laughs. On the ropes at either end are Caldwell and Bentley with Prane as the medic.

Rappelling demonstrations complete the demonstration with S. Sgt. Gilbert J. Pearce Jr. doing a hasty rappel, Miller with a body rappel and Caldwell in a seat rappel.

In the litter evacuation down the rocks will be Hoyt, Bentley and Brown.

The finale has the cast jumping down the cliff en masse with Spec. 4 Harold Dixon dropping 120 feet in two jumps.

Topping the pinnacle across the canon is another highlight of the demonstration which keeps spectators' heads spinning.

First Lt. Frederick Borneman, new academy commandant, will be on hand for the final opportunity for the public to see their Army in action.

Shuttle bus service by Colorado Springs Transit Company is offered at the large parking lot near Evans and Cheyenne Road on the Broadmoor - Palmer Park bus line.

Private cars are not authorized to park at the rock climb amphitheater which is a short distance up North Cheyenne Canon, southwest of Colorado Springs.

177 New Teachers Assigned To Schools in District 11

A total of 177 new teachers from 35 states and one foreign country have been hired by School District 11 for the coming year.

Of that total 75 will fill new teaching positions in the school system and the remainder will be replacements. The new teachers brings the total teaching staff to 952, according to Robert Davis, personnel director.

Sixty-seven of the new teachers are from Colorado, Davis said. The District 11 School Board last February approved a $300 increase in starting salary to go into effect next January. Beginning teachers will be paid $4,600 a year. Experienced teachers also will receive higher pay in January and advanced professional pay will also be raised.

Davis said the new salary scale was a big factor in recruiting the new teachers. "I think it's one of the reasons we were able to attract more teachers from Colorado," he said.

The Midwest again was the source of many of the new teachers, with eight coming from Illinois and seven each from Iowa and Kansas. Texas and New York also contributed seven teachers each.

Mrs. Kerstin Edgar, a native of Sweden, will teach physical education at Palmer High School. She has been a resident of Colorado for about a year. Since coming to this country she has conducted physical education workshops in several of the Colorado colleges and universities.

As usual, women far outnumber the men among the new District 11 staff members. Only 54 new teachers are men, most of whom will teach in the junior and senior high schools.

Terrors Try Comeback In South Central Loop

By JERRY MEGAHAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writers
After a year of near total frustration, Palmer High fans hope that head coach Bill Westbay has finally gotten his Terrors untrack- ed.

The 1961 season bore an uncanny resemblance to Pearl Harbor as far as the Terrors were concerned. Ten straight opponents bombed a predominantly sophomore-junior Palmer aggregation, culminated by a 33-0 wax job by arch-rival Was- son.

Fourteen lettermen, who learned the ways of the South Central League the hard way last fall, re- turn to try to wipe out the mem- ories of the previous season.

Prognosis for the '62 campaign seems to be that the Terrors won't make the change from patsy to power over-night but that they are definitely on the road back. West- bay says, "I think the South Central League should be well balanc- ed this year with no-one really out of contention and the top teams pretty tightly bunched."

I think we'll be in a position to give any team in the loop a good fight this time."

The Palmer gridders went thru their first game-type scrimmage yesterday with the first team shut- ting out the second team, three TD's to none. Right halfback Doug Swayne scampered 35 yards for one score and Ray Cool and Glen Johnson tallied the other two on short plunges.

"It wasn't bad for the first scrimmage of the season," said Westbay. "We have a long way to go yet but I think we're going to make it. The boys have shown a wonderful attitude so far, very willing to work."

Alan Snyder and Bobby Joe Williams, two junior lettermen, are currently the ends in Westbay's tentative starting lineup. Wil- liams, 6-4 and 196 pounds, makes a tempting target for the Palmer passers. Snyder weighs only 135 pounds but has good hands at the wide end position.

Co-Captain Ward Huffman, 180 pounds, and Gary Young, 181 pounds, hold forth at the tackle positions. They're both senior lettermen and move well.

Westbay's guards are inexpe- rienced but he has plenty of them to choose from. Neither Dave Dobbin, 190 pounds, nor Don Eng- lish, 140 pounds, lettered last au- tumn but they've looked good enough in drills to grab tentative starting berths.

Bob Justis, 170 pound senior letterman, is currently the rank- ing Terror at the center spot, if he can continue to hold off junior Roderick Aio, 157 pound transfer from Hawaii.

Quarterback is in a nice state of competitive flux with lettermen Walt Hyton, 145 pound junior, and Pat Berkheim, 138 pound senior, bickering over the starting slot. Both boys are fair throwers and should see an equal amount of action.

Fullback comes equipped with Ray Cool, 166 pound junior letter- man, who knows his way thru the middle of the line. Glen Johnson, 185 pound senior, is a likely look- ing candidate at left halfback. He didn't letter last fall but he has the size and swift to make it this term.

Co-Captain Doug Swayne, 150 pound senior letterman, appears to have the wing-back slot well in hand. He's a talented pass re- ceiver and has a knack for the broken field.

The Palmer coaching staff is lamenting the unexpected loss of Gene Small, lettered halfback, who was expected to provide the bulk of the breakaway punch this season. Small flunked his pre-season physical and unless things change, he'll be spending this season in the rooter's section.

A little better has come with the bitter. Westbay has been very pleased with the quick develop- ment his second team has shown and, if the progress continues, the Terrors may be able to institute a two-unit system.

Lettered ends Fred Gloss, 170 pound senior, and Jim Justis, 165 pound senior, are pushing West- bay's starting tackles hard. Jus- tis lettered at quarterback last season but the Terrors decided they needed him up front more.

Falcons Pop Leather In Opening Scrimmage

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor
Leather popping echoed thru the new Falcon Stadium for the first time and it was a welcome sound Saturday marked the first actual football scrimmage in the im- pressive $3.5 million structure as Coach Ben Martin ran his Air Force Academy team thru its initial game-type workout of the season.

In three more weeks the Fal- cons will return to this week- end's battle-ground for the op- ener of the 1962 schedule again- st Colorado State University and a capacity crowd is expected by many officials.

However, Saturday there was only a sprinkling of eager fans scattered thruout the 40,000 seats and the sounds of the manicured turf echoed among the waiting bleachers. It was a sound of solid contact and sometimes punishing blocking and tackling.

This could be typical of the Falcons this fall. On the whole, the offense ap- peared to be slightly ahead of the defense as all units moved the ball with ease across the sunlit field. But the team stuck to basic Hengies, and the end play of Flexible - T formation plays of the Martin system and the smoothness of the offensive flow was a tribute to the polish of in- dividual play — for this early in the season.

The Varsity, running in three de- finite units, ran against the Ju- nior Varsity and finally came off the field with a 38-0 score on six touchdowns. Martin emphasized that the JV's have more strength than in years past, which added importance to the difference in the score.

As far as the touchdowns were concerned, several players shar- ed in the Saturday glory. Start- ing quarterback Terry Isaacson scored once on a run and an- other on a 28-yard touchdown pass to end Dick Brown. Offe- sive unit quarterback Dave Back- us, a 170-pound sophomore from Denver, scored on a end run keep- er and a sneak, while fullbacks Larry Tollstam and Tony Mel- los each scored once each.

Individually, standouts had to be Isaacson, who ran his unit with near mid - season finesse, and Tollstam, the only sophomore to break into the starting unit so far. Tallstam, a 210 - pounder from Lansing, Mich., was the leading ground gainer (as he may well be for the entire season) but he carried the ball far more than any other player.

Martin continued to use the three-unit system, with the start- ers going both ways on offense and defense, another unit used primarily on offense and the other mainly on defense. The units were inserted as the game situation dic- tated, with little or no hitches.

Martin also pointed out the standout play of his guards, Bruce Kohl, Stu Fenske and Bill Tolstam at full and end play of Brown, John Puster (a 200-pound soph) and Joe O'Gorman, anoth- er 200-pound sophomore from Dearborn, Mich.

As a unit, the starters were especially impressive with Isaac- son moving his players like chess- men. Running in this backfield besides the Oak Park, Ill., ju- nior were Tollstam at full and Nick Arshinkoff (last year's regu- lar fullback) and seatback Darryl Bloodworth at the halfbacks.

Tollstam and Arshinkoff gave the unit a fine one-two punch of power running and Bloodworth, who once darted for 22 yards on- eral years.

Gunderson Wins Third Women's Title

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—Bionde Joanne Gunderson, giving a superb exhibition of putting, routed 17-year-old Ann Baker of Maryville, Tenn., 9 and 8 Satur- day to become the sixth contin- ent in history to win the U. S. Women's Amateur golf champion- ship at least three times.

Miss Gunderson, who lives in Kirkland, Wash., 30 miles from 1961 titleholder Anne Quast Dick- er, whizzed over the first 18 holes of this 36-hole match-play final over the sloping country club of Rochester course with a two- under-par 70. The record round was the best ever recorded by a woman over this 36-hole par 72, 161-yard layout, and pushed Jo- anne to a 6-up lead at the half- way mark.

Mrs. Jean Trainor of Roches- ter, N. Y., a member of the host club, netted a one-over par 73 on Sept. 6, 1961 for the best previous round. Miss Gunderson's 70 will not go into the record books here because of a pair of conceded puts on the first 18 holes.

Mrs. Gienna Colett Vare Jr won this tournament a record six times.

Miss Gunderson, who seemed to be more serious about golf Saturday than in six previous matches, overwhelmed the Ten- nessee teenager with her long- range drives and deadeye putt- ing.

Joanne ended the match on the 28th, a par 5, 325-yarder and the granddaddy of them all here. It was on this same hole that she notched the only eagle of the tournament earlier in the day.

Miss Gunderson, who said the Bob's Auto Service of Denver and women's amateur ended her tour- Morris Motors of Provo, Utah, nament schedule for the year, salvaged wins Saturday to stay really proved her pre-match alive in the regional softball statement that "I'm on the verge of playing very, very well."

She's downed Cheyenne VFW, felt she was nearing her peak in 5-1, and Morris eliminated Pehr- the 3 and 2 victory over Ameri- son's Electric of Salt Lake City, can Curtis Cup teammate Phyllis 12-3.

Preuss Friday in her semi-final Frank Carbone of Bob's Auto led his team to victory with four hits in four at bats, while Paul Hodges contributed a two-run covering the first nine holes at home in the fourth inning. Bill Lingle went all the way for the lead.

Two booming drives got her Pitcher Gary Ernest of Morris within 18 feet of the pin on the Motors drove in four runs, while 10th and she stroked it in for the Gene Laursen added a triple and eagle 3. Miss Baker had won only a homer for three runs. Ernest one hole to that point—with a 30-27 win.

Miss Baker, who won only three holes all day, cut the margin to 5 by nudging 2-0. Maddox roughed up Morris, in a four-foot birdie putt on the 12-4. West Side drubbed Pehr- 5, 4-3-5-15th.

Miss Gunderson retaliated with a 15-foot birdie on 18 and started day.

The champion canned a 14-foot birdie putt on the 20th and a 1-Cheyenne VFW 000-100-0-1 2 2 foot par putt on the next hole to Bill Lingle and Ted Shields; Walt extend her lead to 8-up. Miss Gebhardt and Tom Schoenberg Baker, playing in her third Wom- Mrs. Morris 212-0

Epics of Sea To Be Featured Big, New Films

By BOB THOMAS

movies

During the next few months, movegoers are going to wonder how the British navy ever found time to fight the French around the end of the 18th Century. It would seem that the fleet's officers and men spent most of the time fighting each other.

Three sea epics will be sailing into the nation's theaters and will inevitably face comparison with each other. The first of the films,

"Billy Budd," sets a fast pace.

Coming up is the dramatically titled "Damn the Defiant" with

Britishers Alec Guinness, Dirk

Bogarde and Anthony Quayle.

This is reported to be well-done sea stuff, complete with stiff-backed officers, muttering crew and stirring battles.

These two films, both made in England, are being hurried into release before the big daddy of sea movies, "Mutiny on the Bonny," hits the market. The prior two were filmed probably for little more than a tenth of the "Bounty's" $20 million cost.

But money isn't everything. For all its lack of scenic grandeur—

most of the film is played on one ship in calm seas—"Billy Budd" is a cracking good movie, especially for the thoughtful movie patron.

The story comes from Herman

Melville's short novel "Billy

Budd, Foretopman." It is basically a tale of good and evil, but it is not a mere morality play, vor-

Children Become Critical of TV Show Advertising

By IRWIN FRANK

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A child psychologist said here children he tested tended toward not using the products advertised on their favorite television programs.

Twenty per cent of the 10 children tested did not want to use any of the products advertised on their three favorite television programs. Dr. Glenn W. Thompson told the American Psychological Association convention. He is assistant professor of psychology at Allegheny College in Meadville, Pa.

His test was conducted among 100 third-grade students selected from schools of a central Pennsylvania community.

"Some children tend to discount promises made by advertisers because of past experiences in which a product failed to deliver the promised benefits," Thompson said. "They also tend to be critical of further promises made for products."

The group of children tested tended to use just under 50 per cent of the products advertised on their three favorite programs, Thompson said.

Thompson said 28 per cent of the children associated the wrong product with their favorite program. "The product named was usually of the same type, or advertised on a directly preceding or following program."

He said that, "The child who watches television the greater number of hours, more or less independent of intelligence, is somewhat more likely to be the child who used the products advertised on television."

"This provides some evidence in television advertising in that there is a tendency for the child to buy, or to a certain resemblance between what to buy, regardless of his intelligence, socio-economic status, or school achievement."

Thompson said "no evidence is found for concluding that amount of viewing has a detrimental effect on school achievement" as much as the student devotes to it. Thompson said, "There must be some tendency for those who member that it can be an impediment more viewing to come from ment of war."

He said he regarded the title "Poet" as the greatest praise and added: "There must be deference to the father of two children, has a television set in his home and allows his children to watch as often as they wish."

Market Cautious on Eve Of 'Business New Year'

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market today stands on the verge of the traditional "business new year" — Labor Day — with more than usual caution.

In the week preceding the long Labor Day weekend, trading dwindled to the lowest total in a month as traders cleared the decks for whatever the fall season would bring.

The market had one sharp de-

Denver Chamber Asks Early Ruling On CIG Project

The Denver Chamber of Commerce Friday asked for a prompt decision by the Federal Power Commission in resolving Colorado Interstate Gas Company's proposed $93-million Rock Springs project.

The project, a joint proposal of CIG and El Paso Natural Gas Co., calls for a new pipeline extending from West Texas through eastern Colorado and southern Wyoming to add 80 million cubic feet a day capacity for CIG's Rocky Mountain area customers. It also includes a line west from Rock Springs, Wyo., that would carry Wyoming gas to California.

The Denver Chamber's request for a quick FPC decision on the Rock Springs project took the form of a resolution, approved by the Chamber's 28-member board of directors.

The resolution reads in part: "The Denver Chamber of Commerce respectfully urges the Federal Power Commission to act quickly upon the pending Colorado Interstate Gas Company's proposed $93-million Rock Springs project, which is necessary for the continued sound development of Denver and the State of Colorado."

The project was proposed by CIG and El Paso in 1958, and was approved by the FPC in 1960. A rehearing was ordered, however, which concluded last April. FPC decision on the project is pending.

Titan Sent to West Coast for Launching

DENVER (UPI) — The Martin Marietta Corp. announced here it has shipped to Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., the first Titan II for launching from the West Coast.

The missile arrived at the air base aboard a C-133. It follows two other Titan II training missiles sent to Vandenberg in recent weeks.

The latest Titan will undergo a complete inspection and checkout prior to installation in its concrete and steel silo launch test facility. It is designed to train Strategic Air Command crews in missile handling and pre-launch countdown procedures.

Titan II is an advanced version of the Titan I. It utilizes foot-candle liquid propellants. The 100-foot missile will have the capability of being launched directly from the bottom of its protected silo and will deliver heavier payloads with a greatly reduced reaction time.

Age of U.S. Justices Reduced in Selections

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's two selections for the Supreme Court—Byron R. White, 45, and Arthur J. Goldberg, 54, have reduced the average age of the nine justices from 65 to 59.

White's predecessor, Charles E. Whittaker, was 61 when he left the court last spring. Felix Frankfurter, who retired Thursday when Goldberg's selection as a justice was announced simultaneously, is 79.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Until the blood bank is replenished, patients undergoing major surgery in Mombasa hospitals will have to line up for their own blood donors, authorities announced.

cline, on Tuesday, and a surprising rally in the final hour Friday. On the other days the market dawdled, with the emphasis slightly more to the selling than the buying side.

The Dow Jones industrial average ended the week with a net loss of 4.36 at 609.18.

"The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1.2 to 225.2. Both declines were minor. Both averages were up considerably from their closing lows for the year reached June 25—the Dow industrials down 535.76 and the AP 60 stocks from 200.6.

The market had enjoyed a good traditional "summer rally," it now faced the month of September which has a tradition for being almost always a down month when the major trend of the stock market is down, as it is at present, according to most theoretical standards.

Volume this week faded to 14,327,660 shares from 20,493,852 the week before and was the lightest since the week ended July 25 when turnover was 13,914,661 shares.

The week began in lethargic fashion with brokers already beginning to talk about the week ahead. Steel production declined in the latest week. Although there was a slight rise in steel mill orders, steel shares edged to the downside.

On Tuesday stocks wilted in one of the sharpest drops of the summer but volume was moderate and brokers took the decline with relative calm. They remarked that many traders had profits to take after the summer advance and that profit taking was normal in advance of the Labor Day milestone. The cost of living rose to a record high and building contracts were greater, but this brought no enthusiasm.

On Wednesday the market continued to drift downward but found support above the psychologically important 600 level in the Dow Jones industrial average. A dividend cut by Wheeling Steel followed similar action by Republic Steel in the previous week but the market found support in spite of this.

Steels did not begin to weaken until the Thursday session when the Wheeling dividend action was reinforced by the news that some steel companies had refused to comply with subpoenas from the Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly.

On Friday, motors were pacemakers in a late rally, accompanied by stocks of the savings-and-loan holding companies. Reports of the 1963 auto models were cheered by prospects of another delay in pending tax legislation, which is designed to increase their taxes. Improvement, however, spread through the whole list.

The five most active issues last week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

American Photocopy, up 1/4 at 16 1/2; on 241,600 shares; Polaroid, up 8 1/2 at 11 1/2; Litter Industries, off 1/4 at 8 1/2; Martin Marietta, off 1/4 at 24 1/2; and Brunswick, off 1/4 at 20 1/2.

Increase in Red Meat Production Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of red meats during the first seven months of this year was 3 per cent above the like period last year.

The Agriculture Department reported output at 16,098,000,000 cent, veal was down 3 per cent, pork was up 6 per cent and mutton and lamb were down 5 per cent.

FRANK LADWIG

Ladwig Marks 10th Anniversary As Local Firm

The Ladwig Welding and Manufacturing Co. Inc. is celebrating its 10th anniversary as a Colorado Springs business. It was on Sept. 11, 1952, that announcement was made that the Casey Welding Works, 216 S. Cascade Ave., had been sold to Frank Ladwig, of St. Louis, Mo. On Jan. 11, 1955, the company had moved into newly constructed buildings at 1801 S. Royce St., where it is today.

"We have been in practically all the major projects here in this past 10 years," said Frank Ladwig, president of the company, last week — highway work, Colorado College, Air Force Academy, schools, etc."

The late Frank O. Ladwig, father of the president, was associated with him until his death. Frank Ladwig said that the only 10th anniversary celebration planned is that the 10 members of the company and staff will go fishing at different times. Mrs. Margaret Ladwig, wife of Frank Ladwig, is secretary-treasurer of the company. Frank O. Ladwig, father of Frank Ladwig, was vice president of the company when it was formed.

The present buildings that house the business are on two acres of ground. One building, 36 by 60 feet in dimensions, is the welding shop. Another, 35 by 60 feet, contains the blacksmith and machine shops. The Rocky Mountain Foundry, which operates with the group, is in a building 80 by 40 feet in dimensions. Still another building, 25 by 25 feet, is used for office space and parts storage.

The Casey Welding Works was operated by C. W. Casey and M. Casey, who before they came to Colorado Springs were Elbert farm boys.

Shuman Charges Wheat Proposal Monstrosity

JUNCTION CITY, Kan. (UPI) — The president of the American Farm Bureau charged here that the "administration's supply-management plan for wheat is a complicated, administrative monstrosity."

Charles R. Shuman said the administration's plan "would require a vast new army of federal payrollers to police its intricate regulations and enforce severe penalties."

Shuman, addressing a Kansas Farm Bureau commodity conference at nearby Rock Springs 4-H Ranch, added that the multiple wheat certificate plan now under consideration by Congress would hurt farmers, consumers and taxpayers.

He said the farm bureau favors termination of wheat allotments and marketing quotas, adding that the organization favors relating the wheat "price support to the support price of corn with adjustments for difference in weight, nutritive value, buyer preference, and supply and demand conditions — and with premiums for milling and baking quality."

LIGHT TRICKS CHICKS

BRISTOL, Conn. (UPI) — Chickens farmers often go to the coops at night, flip on the lights to awaken the chickens and induce them to eat and lay another egg. But the trouble in many coops: ordinary lights awaken the chickens too fast. In the scramble that follows many fractured wings and legs.

Light dimmers — used in theaters and restaurants — now are being used in the coops. The lights, gradually brightened and then dimmed, give the birds a sunrise to sunset situation in the middle of the night. A firm that makes dimmers (Superior Electric) reports the dimmers eliminate the scramble. Farmers using dimmers report more eggs and no broken legs.

Independent Oil Firms Get Help From Big Firms

By EDWARD M. MCMAHON
TULSA (UPI) — Independent petroleum companies are getting some competition from, of all people, their big brothers, the major oil firms.

Independents, most of whom have low overhead and sell their gasoline cheaper, have made considerable inroads in the past several years. In some areas, their share of the market is 50 per cent.

So, some of the big companies have been meeting the competition head-on, by setting up their own independent-type stations under new brand names.

The latest projects of this type have been by Sunray DX Oil Co. and Gulf Oil Corp.

Sunray has established a station under the name Freeway at Tulsa and has plans for more. The company called it an experiment.

Gulf, starting today, is taking over operation of Quality Oil Co. stations.

R. W. Ellis, manager of Sunray's southern marketing division, said the purpose of this Freeway operation was to test marketing practices and services at a small, independent-type unit in Tulsa.

He said two other older type stations in Tulsa also were scheduled for the test. Apparently, any further expansion would depend on how much business these three stations do.

The Sunray DX name is nowhere in sight at the station already operating. Only regular and premium gasoline and motor oils are sold. There are no trading stamps, no wash and lube bays.

Prices are at the usual independent level, 2 cents a gallon below the prevailing major-brand gasolines.

In the other case, Gulf purchased control of Quality Officials of the company said there was no timetable at present for converting the Quality stations to the Gulf brand, pending further studies.

There were 23 Quality stations involved, all in Oklahoma. Several other large companies, surveyed by United Press International, were emphatic in statements that they had no current independent-type operations and no plans for them.

Phillips Petroleum Co. said it still had some stations under the Phillips brand, but explained that they were acquired in a trade deal and were kept under the old name because of prior commitments with jobbers.

"The Paraland name is slowly dying out," a Phillips spokesman said, "and we have no plans whatsoever to engage in an independent-type setup."

An official of Humble Oil and Refg. Co. said about the same — "We have not had such stations at any place or any time."

Skelly Oil Co. gave a similar answer.

Kennecott Copper Curtails Production

NEW YORK (UPI) — Kennecott Copper Corp. announced here it has curtailed copper production from seven days to six days a week to bring output "into line with current sales."

President Frank R. Milliken said both domestic and Chilean operations will be curtailed. He said the reduction in the work week will result in a 10 per cent drop in copper output.

Milliken said that Kennecott's copper inventories are normal. Company production has been cut back recently because of vacation shutdowns at Western properties and work stoppages at Braden Copper Co., a Chilean subsidiary.

U.S. in Second Place As Importer of Meat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is the world's largest importer of meat but it ranked second last year as an importer. A government trade report showed that imports in 1961 totaled 1,324,000,000 pounds, up 26 per cent from 1960. In import volume, this country was exceeded only by Britain with 3,290,000,000 pounds. Last year's imports were nearly three times as large as the 1961-62 average.

September Has Poorer Record In Stock Trade

By JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP) — What does September hold for the stock market?

J. Joseph E. Granville, analyst for E. F. Hutton & Co., recalls that September has one of the poorer records throughout market history in both bull and bear markets.

"In a down year it has been almost always a poor month," he says. "One can look for excuses for a downswing, and this year there is no shortage of reasons."

The best reason for caution at this time is the technical position of the market itself. Increased liquidity might be a real advantage before September ends. Most stocks at this point look like they can be purchased cheaper."

Another analyst, B. K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohn & Stetson, considers the market to be engaged in a nervous game of guessing what speculative sentiment will be when the country returns to work in earnest after Labor Day.

"How far the market can rally from here in the absence of tangible business improvement is open to question, but at least it does not seem likely to decline seriously without some evidence of economic deterioration, and such is not presently to be seen," Thurlow says.

Another Wall Streeter in a mildly optimistic frame of mind is Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co. He expects the market to maintain its dull pace for a while longer with its marking position suggesting that a base is being built for a new upward thrust.

PARTAKE Opens Office; Richardson in Charge

Mather was formerly in charge of the Dale Carnegie Courses in the Pikes Peak Region and is moving to Denver to open an office there. Most of his time will be spent in that area.

Perkins, who is head of the Perkins Motor Co. will retain that position in addition to being an active counselor at the PARTAKE office.

Littleton Firm Gets Hospital Contract

DENVER (AP) — The Alexander Construction Co. of Littleton will do the excavating for the new complex of buildings at the Colorado State Hospital at Pueblo.

It submitted the lowest of three bids for the job "opened Thursday by the state."

The company's bid was $5,636, State Purchasing Agent Lucy L. Wilkinson announced. The company said it expects to complete the job in 60 days.

The new complex will be north of the hospital's geriatrics building on 24th St. The institution's administrative offices are in the geriatrics building.

Transmission Line Work Begun in Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Utah Power and Light Co. has started work on two major transmission lines expected to boost its power pooling or interconnecting capability with other utilities.

The current program is expected to cost an estimated $14 million. One project involves completion of 200 miles of the last two legs of the 260-mile line from Salt Lake City to the Arizona border.

The other is an 88-mile stretch which will connect Utah Power's new Kemmerer, Wyo., steam-electric plant with the company's "grid" at Ogden.

Late Summer Lassitude Marks Economic Scene

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Congress wrestled during the week with legislation of high importance to business. The preliminary actions generally supported views of business and financial circles.

Elsewhere, the lassitude of late summer spread over the economic scene. The automobile industry was slow in getting production of 1963 models under way, steel output lagged and the stock market sagged.

Here is what Congress did in the field of economic legislation: The Senate rejected an administration-supported proposal to impose withholding taxes on income from dividends and interest. The House had approved a plan expected to produce $520 million annually in currently uncollected revenues.

The Senate defeated an attempt to remove from the tax revision bill a section providing tax credits for businessmen who buy new equipment.

For the first time in weeks the nation's economic outlook failed to be a subject of discussion at President Kennedy's news conference. This was a welcome development to businessmen, who saw in it indication that apprehension had diminished.

The First National City Bank of New York said in its monthly review that business reports for the summer months show that the vacation-time slowdown in activity was no greater than usual, and that talk of a probable recession next winter had waned.

Automobile production picked up some speed during the week but indications were that the industry would build fewer passenger cars this month than in any month since September 1958.

The week's output was estimated at 35,000 cars, up from 31,000 the previous week but far below the 91,000 a year ago. General Motors still was shut down for the model changeover but the four other big makers were in production.

Steel production dipped during the week for the first time since the holiday-shortened July 4 week. The total of 1,611,000 tons was 63 per cent below the previous week. Industry sources said a substantial pickup may not come before November because big users still are working off inventories.

Wheeling Steel Corp., No. 1 producer, cut its quarterly common stock dividend from 50 cents to 25 cents because of what it said was a cost-price squeeze. Republic Steel Corp. had sliced its dividend earlier for the same reason.

Pre-Labor Day caution gripped the stock market, drying up buying and sending it sharply lower. Stock sales for the week totaled 14,327,660 shares, down from the 20,493,852 of the previous week and the 15,163,690 of the comparable week of last year. Bond sales amounted to $19,362,000 par value, also down from the $23,501,000 of the previous week and the $27,491,000 of the comparable 1961 week.

The cost of living reached another record high, rising by two-tenths of one per cent in July, mainly because of higher prices for food and services. The Department of Labor's index rose to 106.3 per cent of the average prices in 1957-1959.

As a result about 950,000 workers in the automobile, automobile blind maker said he will buy his parts, farm equipment, aerospace materials from the United States and metalworking industries will for the rest of 1962.

Mechanization Cuts Colorado Farm Problems

By GORDON G. GAUS S

DENVER (AP) — Mechanization is minimizing Colorado's migrant farm labor problem year by year.

Its effect probably will become even more pronounced in the future.

The migrant worker problem could be further reduced if a way can be found to keep jobs available for those in the state, rather than interspersing work periods with weeks of enforced idleness while other workers are recruited for needed jobs comparatively close at hand.

Marketing problems of farmers, which make their return from crops hazardous, play an important role in the conditions faced by the migrant.

These are some of the points turned up in the first real study of migrants' problems ever made in the state. It has been carried out by a special legislative committee, working through the Legislative Council staff, during the past two summers.

Final interviews, centering in Weld County, have just been completed. Interviewers returned to the capital Friday. Analysis of the data obtained will get under way when the capital reopens after Labor Day and much of it will be presented at a Denver meeting of the committee Sept. 26.

More than 1,000 migrants were interviewed during the study. Also growers and processors were asked for their views. So were the state agencies involved with migrants—such as the Department of Health, the Department of Education and the Department of Employment. Local officials, including law enforcement officers, were asked about conditions. Housing available to the farm workers—both seasonal and permanent—was studied first hand by the committee and its staff.

The study continued in southern and western Colorado during 1961 and in northern Colorado this year. Heading the 12-member committee was Rep. M. R. Douglass, R-Grand Junction. Its vice chairman was Sen. Robert Allen, D-Denver.

"We won't come forth with a whole battery of legislative recommendations," Allen said in discussing completion of the work with a reporter. "There will be a number of important specifics, however, arising from the study."

"We definitely intend to avoid unrealistic regulations which could drive the farmer out of business," Allen said. "One committee recommendation probably will be that some agency—possibly a governor's committee—follow up the legislative work and keep abreast of changes year by year."

Biggest problems regarding migrants, the committee has found, are housing and work schedules which bring layoffs between jobs. It has found the state is doing well in educating children of migrants and that health department regulations are good, but don't apply to all small operations and suffer because the department hasn't a staff large enough to carry through on its programs. Transportation of migrant workers also proved to be less of a problem than most committee members expected. Instead of traveling long distances in overloaded trucks, now they are coming into the state mostly by private cars and buses, the committee said.

Nothing Done About Old Monroe Doctrine

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Monroe Doctrine has something in common with the weather. Just plain, ordinary weather.

It is this. Everybody is talking about the Monroe Doctrine but nobody is doing anything about it.

Cuba has made the doctrine a talky topic.

There is reason why nobody is doing anything about the Monroe Doctrine in relation to Cuba. That reason is this: The Monroe Doctrine was and is a preventive doctrine. It was designed to persuade certain European powers not to do certain things in the Western Hemisphere. The doctrine in most cases could persuade and prevent only when supported by strong—very strong—threats of hard-nosed war if the European powers persisted.

More simply: Mr. Monroe's doctrine was a device of statecraft intended to help keep the United States out of war by preventing the development of a situation in which the national interest would compel the United States to undertake a war.

The essential points that bear on the deplorable situation which the Eisenhower administration allowed to develop in Cuba are these.

The Monroe Doctrine was intended to prevent:

Any attempt by the European powers to extend their political system to any portion of this hemisphere, or to any part of either continent.

Any interposition, by any European power, for the purpose of oppressing or controlling in any other manner the destinies of the Latin American governments who have declared their independence and maintained it.

These are two of five basic points certified by the late J. Reuben Clark who, in 1928, wrote for the State Department a memo on the Monroe Doctrine. Clark was undersecretary of state.

Clark's scholarly analysis clearly shows that in purpose and in application, Mr. Monroe's doctrine was a preventive measure.

like wearing rubbers against the threat of heavy rain. As wearing rubbers would serve not much purpose after the feet were wet, so the Monroe Doctrine is not likely to be of much use after the fact of old world intrusion into the new world—as Communism has intruded in Cuba.

The doctrine was stated in 1823. Cuba has figured since in a dozen developments which could be considered as coming within area of the principles underlying the Monroe Doctrine. More often than not over the years, the doctrine was the basis of sturdy U.S. diplomacy to prevent Great Britain from seizing Cuba from Spanish control.

The United States was ever eager and anxious to prevent a great naval power (Great Britain) from controlling the strategic Cuban harbors and bases and, thereby, the naval situation in the Caribbean. This was true in August, 1849, when Spain was believed to be negotiating cession of Cuba to the British.

The State Department informed the U.S. minister to Spain that:

"This (U.S.) government is resolutely determined that the island of Cuba shall never be ceded by Spain to any other power than the United States. The cession of Cuba to any foreign power would, in the U.S., be the instant signal for war."

That ended that.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.

Dear friends,

The least suggestion of show or display in any funeral service is in poor taste.

It has always been our thought that the funeral director should be as inconspicuous as possible. The many details involved should be looked after quietly, respectfully...the family should be relieved of all possible responsibility.

That is our duty, our service.

Respectfully,

Civic Players to Hold First Readings Sept. 9 at Center

Orvis Grout, who begins his 18th season this year as professional director of the Civic Players of Colorado Springs, has announced that the first play readings for the 1962-63 season will be held in the Green Room at the Fine Arts Center at 2 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 9.

Five Broadway shows will be presented during the season, each to run for six nights at the Fine Arts Center. Dates of the first play are Oct. 15 thru Oct. 20th.

The play readings are open to the public and Grout is issuing a call for newcomers to the stage as well as veterans to attend the readings. Those people interested in any phase of backstage work are invited to come.

Choice of this season's opener has not yet been definitely made, but plays to be read on Sept. 9 will be "The Best Man," a political show with a large cast and "Critic's Choice," a comedy with a cast of seven.

Keith Nelson is chairman of the play reading committee whose other members are Tom Fischer, Milt Slosky, John Baker and Jack Roeser.

Grout goes to New York each fall to see the new shows and to find out which may be suitable and available for Civic Players. He organizes all aspects of his stage productions into a smooth-working unity and his experience and judgement in fine sense of casting enable him to bring out the very best in his actors into the parts they portray. Having started with Civic Players in the fall of 1946 with "Angel Street," Grout has moulded many an inexperienced actor into working smoothly with a group of seasoned players.

Damage Estimated Following Earthquake

LOGAN, Utah (UPI)—Damage estimates in Thursday's earthquake continued to mount today as residents of three northern Utah towns cleaned up debris.

Damage was expected to exceed the $500,000 mark in the territory, which struck at 6:36 a.m. Although it was felt in several other states, mainly southern Idaho and western Wyoming, the earthquake concentrated most of its damage in Logan, Richmond and Lewiston. The quake was centered about 10 miles northwest of Logan.

Friday the Small Business Administration announced that it was designating Cache County a disaster area as a result of the quake.

The agency's declaration qualifies homeowners, businesses, churches and charitable institutions whose property was damaged or destroyed for SBA reconstruction or rehabilitation loans at three per cent interest. In Richmond, city officials announced at least nine homes would have to be rebuilt.

Thru the cooperation of Chicago's American we are producing here a full page devoted to parents and young children. Read it carefully.

With so many children in school, we should not forget that much of what they learn is going to be learned out of school. And we should see to it that what they learn includes taking care of themselves. In the final analysis, education gets down to self-reliance in an intelligent manner.

Parents should teach, and they should also warn their children. Chiefly, the child should learn never to become friendly with strangers who offer them rides, candy or other favors.

Have your child study this page. Study it yourself. And we join in hoping that your child may complete his school days in good health and emotionally secure.

WARNING TO ALL BOYS AND GIRLS:

Look Out for All Strangers!

This is an open letter to all boys and girls, from the smallest child to the teen-age group:

A serious problem exists in our country today.

It is the molesting of small children. This ugly crime can happen anywhere, and at any time.

Your mother and father, your teachers and the police want to keep you safe. You can help them by being careful while you are playing and while you are going to and from school.

The pictures on this page show how you should look for people who may want to hurt you.

Always tell the police or your parents when any of these things happen:

- 1 When a stranger asks you to go with him.
- 2 When a stranger tries to join in your play.
- 3 When a stranger talks to you in the movies.
- 4 When a stranger touches you in the movies.
- 5 When a stranger tries to make you disobey any of the rules on this page.

And remember—

- 1 Always mark down the license number on the stranger's car.
- 2 Take a good look at the stranger. Remember what he looks like.
- 3 Look at these pictures carefully. Remember to do as they tell you.
- 4 Be sure to have your parents look at this page.

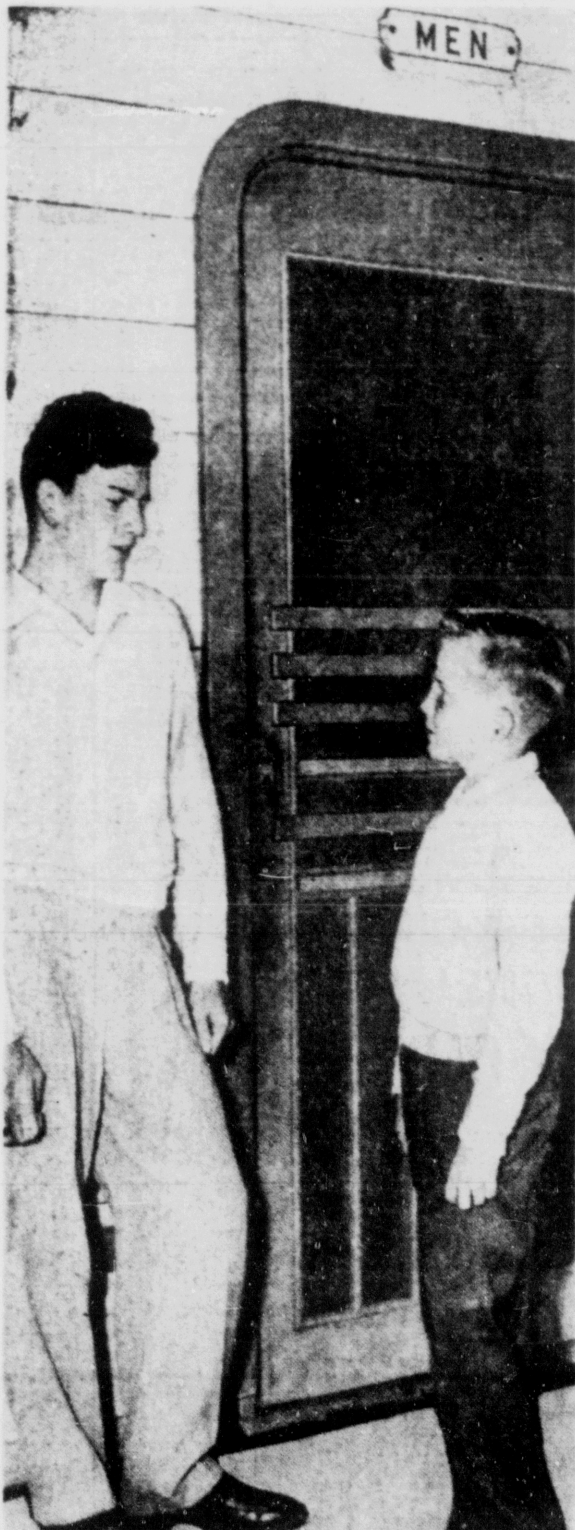

ALWAYS write license number of any suspicious car. If you have no pencil, scratch it in cement or dirt.

GET THE LICENSE NUMBER OF CAR!

GET THE LICENSE NUMBER OF CAR!

NEVER accept rides from anyone you don't know. Many children ignoring this rule have been kidnaped by strangers. Many have been abused or even killed after accepting rides from unknown auto drivers.

GET THE LICENSE NUMBER OF CAR!

NEVER stand around or play near toilets. Always leave immediately.

GET THE LICENSE NUMBER OF CAR!

NEVER accept candy, gum, money, or treats from a stranger. Never let him touch you.

GET THE LICENSE NUMBER OF CAR!

NEVER go with strangers who ask directions. Never go with strangers who offer you a job.

GET THE LICENSE NUMBER OF CAR!

NEVER play alone in alleys or empty buildings. You are much safer if you take along a neighbor kid, or several of your playmates, whenever you go to the playgrounds, movies, stores or on any errand.

Parents Should Read This, Too!

Parents! It would be wise for you to learn these rules, too.

Boys and Girls! Ask your mothers and fathers to read these rules with you, and then see how many you can remember.

1. Never take rides from strangers.
2. Never take candy or other gifts from strangers.
3. Always report to your teacher, policeman, mailman, bus driver, or parents whenever you see any stranger hanging around on foot or in a car near your school, playground, or other places where you play.
4. Always get the license number of the car. Scratch it with a stick in the dirt or with a stone on the sidewalk if you don't have pencil or paper.

5. Always try to remember what the stranger looked like.

6. The policeman is your friend. Go to him any time you are in trouble.

It boils down to this: Don't trust or believe strangers. If a stranger says he'll show you something, like a puppy or a kitten or something that seems interesting, don't believe him. He may say your parents sent him to get you, or that your parents are sick or injured. Don't believe him. He may even pose as a policeman, with a uniform cap. Don't believe him. Run to a neighbor's door right away, knock loudly, scream for help, and report the incident to whoever answers.

Photos on this page were posed by actors and models Bill Kerwin, Lee Harris, Marcie Vasta, Anna Alori, and Tom Harris of the Patricia Vance Model and Talent Agency.

CU Fraternities, Sororities Comply, Except for One

BOULDER (AP) — All of the 37 fraternities and sororities at University of Colorado, except Phi Delta Theta, have complied with the school's new regulation forbidding discrimination.

Dean of Students Arthur H. Kien- di Jr. reported Friday to the regents that he had placed Phi Delta Theta, a social fraternity, on probation "until such time as it is able to comply."

A 6-year-old rule adopted by the regents gave the societies until Sept. 1, 1962 to meet the new requirements. The regents ordered probation for any fraternity or sorority if it is "compelled by its constitution, rituals or government to deny membership to any person because of his race, color or religion."

Kien-di said all other sororities and fraternities at the university had signed statements certifying that their constitutions have no discriminatory clauses.

While on probation, Phi Delta Theta is prohibited from contacting new students and cannot pledge or initiate new members.

The regents at a meeting Friday approved a request to the state for $2,187,792 to equip the new university hospital under construction at the Medical Center in Denver.

In other actions the regents: Decided to request the state for $400,000 to improve physical facilities at the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital.

Approved preliminary plans for construction of residence halls for 300 students.

Engaged Harry Weese, Chicago, as architect for a 130-unit family house project for married students.

Named Walter M. Uphoff of the University of Minnesota as professor of economics and director of labor education effective next summer.

Appointed Dr. John F. Mueller, professor of medicine at the Medical Center, Dr. Mueller, new chief of medical service at the Denver Veterans Administration hospital, will serve in the dual capacity.

Approved an exchange of land with the State Highway Department for construction of a diamond interchange at the Boulder terminus of the Denver-Boulder turnpike. The highway department will acquire 1.166 acres of university land and will give to the university 1.177 acres.

Three men were injured in the crash when Lankford ran a stop sign at the intersection.

The injured were Arnold Beckman, 26, of 2226 E. Willamette Ave., driver of the other car, who suffered facial lacerations, knee abrasion and back pain; Ernesto Baca of Denver, facial laceration and fractured collar bone; and Albert Frederick Padilla, 2218 E. Willamette Ave., facial lacerations and hip pain.

Both Padilla and Baca were passengers in the Beckman car. All three were treated at Memorial Hospital and released.

Goldcamp School Enrollment Off 5.5 Per Cent

A total of 78 students are enrolled in the high school and 38 in the seventh and eighth grades of the Cripple Creek-Victor school system. This is a loss of only 5.5 per cent from the enrollment last year. School officials had looked for a greater loss, because of the closing down of mining operations in Teller County.

Milward Roesler, formerly of Weatherford, Okla., has been employed to teach business education. Superintendent of Schools Ed Gillevon has announced completion of the Pioneer football schedule for the year.

All games with the exception of one, will be played on Saturday afternoons. Home games will get underway at 1:30 o'clock.

Seventeen CCA students are reporting for practice under the direction of Coach Carl Neppel. Six of the reporting football players are lettermen—Ted Andrew, Dennis Carter, Duane Hahn, Gary Heisel, Willie Klein, Rick Wallingford.

The football schedule for the season follows: Sept. 8—Saguache, here; Sept. 15—Buena Vista, here; Sept. 22—Fairplay, here; Sept. 29—Strasburg, here; Oct. 6—Kowa, here; Oct. 13—Westcliffe, here; Oct. 20—Monument, here.

Players will be wearing new jerseys when the season opens.

There will be no school on Monday, Labor Day. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mackin, owners of the Imperial Hotel, have invited seventh and eighth graders to the melodrama Thursday afternoon and ninth thru 12th grade students Friday afternoon.

Sup. Gillevon also announced the schedule of the National School assemblies for the school year. These assemblies will be presented in Cripple Creek during the mornings and in Victor during the afternoons.

"The public is invited to attend these assemblies."

The first program will be on pottery and is planned for October 19. A scuba diving exhibit will be presented November 28, while a variety program under the direction of the Gascas will be presented December 19. A talk and demonstration on firearms is planned for April 10, and the series will end with a Dutch duo on April 30.

The Mature Parent We Can't Be Liked by All

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
Three weeks ago the super-God to children. It troubles me because of my little girl's Sunday greatly because we are good School gave a party for a group of children, I heard about it, and though our income is only after it was over from the not as large as some of the other mother of one of the youngsters members of our church... ANSWER: Maybe the lady dis- liked you and your child. Maybe she finds you personally unattractive and socially inferior. Maybe she can't stand anything about you.

So? You don't expect everybody to love you, do you? Because they won't. That's how the world is. The idea that we must exert irresistible charm on everyone we meet is the idea that produces our hurt and anger when we discover we don't.

So, if you want to get rid of the hurt inflicted by this Sunday School superintendent, you first have to rid yourself of the obligation to exert universal appeal. When you see what a cruelly impossible burden it imposes on you, you will find yourself able to tolerate this lady's right to like or dislike you. Instead of being the special person she now is with her special ability to hurt you, she will become just one of the thousands of other people you have met and will continue to meet in your life who, for reasons which are uncontrollable by you, do not like you. At this point a nice thing can happen.

You'll find yourself suddenly able to bring up the subject of her slight to this lady. One Sunday morning soon when you take your child down to the Sunday school room, you'll find yourself able to say, "We're fine, thank you—though Chrissie is a little Evelyn Saunders edelen and Mrs. sad at having missed that lovely children's party."

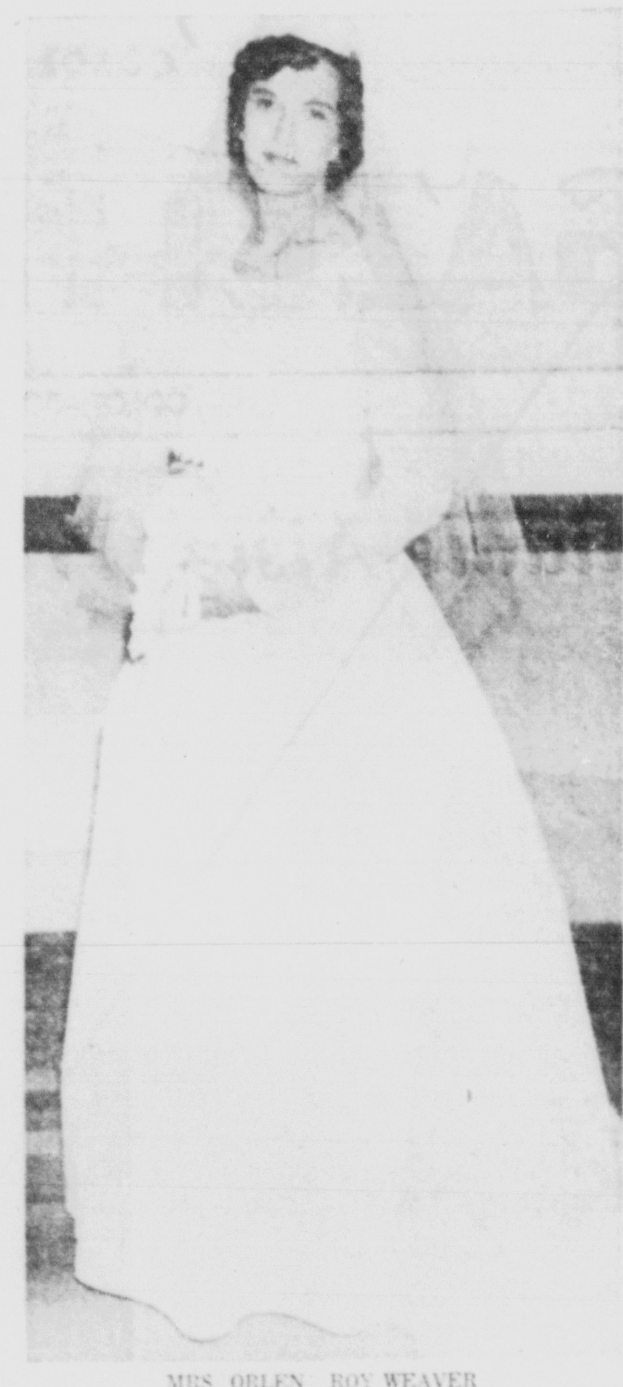

And staring at you in horror, the superintendent may cry out, "Oh, my goodness, didn't Chrissie get her invitation? I sent her one." Or she may say, "Oh, I'm counting on Chrissie for my second party. You see, there are so many children..." She may say "get out of my house!" But if you feel obligated to command her admiration, you will not be able to raise the subject of her slight with her. It will be too loaded with the Queen of Hearts' rage at anyone's refusal to fall to his knees in adoration.

1♣ Pass 1♠ 1NT
Pass 4♥ Pass Pass
5♠ 5♥ Pass Pass
Double Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Seven of ♠

That the game reported today was played in rugged surroundings by the boys in the back room, becomes evident at a light scanning of the bidding sequence. It need hardly be pointed out that among these characters playing for a part score is regarded as an eccentricity.

Let us charitably omit a complete analysis of the auction though we cannot close our eyes to the fact that the final contract was, oddly, five hearts. The cowboy sitting in the South position may have mounted his horse somewhat awkwardly, but once in the saddle he proceeded to give a good account of himself in action.

West opened the seven of clubs. East won with the ace as declarer false-carded with the ten South was convinced that East had a seven card club suit and was in this manner trying to avert a ruff.

It developed that the only defense to defeat the contract was a club return, but this was not easy for East to visualize and he made what seemed like the natural return of the ace and a low trump.

Declarer unblocked the king in dummy and won the second trump lead in his hand. The finesse of the queen of diamonds was then taken. Declarer then cashed the ace of diamonds and ruffed himself in with a diamond.

There was still a vague hope for the hand. East might have a singleton king of spades. This was not much of a prospect, but declarer could see that if East had the king of spades, in any kind of company, the hand could be won on a squeeze. He led a low spade to the ace (The Vienna coup) and ruffed himself in with the last diamond. He then rattled off all the trumps. Declarer came down to the queen of spades and a club. Dummy held king, nine of clubs but East, holding king of spades and jack, eight of clubs, could not find a safe discard. He let go the king of spades in the hope that partner held the queen. It would have been equally fatal to part with the eight of clubs.

Cheese Topping Gives Zest to Beef Sandwich

Sunday night supper can be a delightful meal. It's one of those times when you want to offer food which is a bit out of the ordinary, yet light and simple.

A hot beef sandwich with a cheese topping will fit nicely into the menu. This is also a good way to serve the remaining portion of the Sunday roast.

The special feature of Sunday Supper Sandwich is its combination of two kinds of cheese: mild cream cheese topped up by a tablespoon of Roquefort or blue cheese. Mustard and onion give added zest.

Reba Slaggs, meat expert, states that one of the nice features of a roast is that it furnishes a basis for easy dishes like this sandwich. A thrifty time-saving idea is to purchase a large enough roast for servings at more than one meal.

Sunday Supper Sandwich
4 slices cooked beef, cut 1/4 inch thick
4 slices bread
Butter or margarine
1 package 3 ounces cream cheese
1 tablespoon Roquefort or blue cheese, crumbled
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon chopped parsley

Toast bread on one side. Butter untoasted side. Place meat on untoasted side of bread slices. Cream together cheeses, mustard and onion. Place 2 tablespoons mixture on each sandwich and spread to within 1/2 inch of edge of meat. Sprinkle parsley on top. Bake in a very hot oven, 450 degrees F., 8 to 10 minutes. 4 servings.

The Sack Sneaks Back In Early Fall Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) — fashion in its shifty way is bringing back the sack.

Call it the chemise, muumuu, skimmer or shift, it has a com- mon lack — the belt.

But men have no reason to panic, assure designers Norman Norell, Bill Blass, and Adele Simp- son among others.

Although a preview of fall fash- ions indicate that sacks could disguise a third of the female popu- lation next fall, belts with cer- tainly cinch curves on the rest.

"Some women look wonderful in shifts, but some do not," says Norell. You have to have both kinds of clothes."

He himself made such a suc- cess of putting a 3-inch wide belt in the middle that the style swept across the country copied in cos- tumes from $5.98 to $598. A trade publication credited him with cre- ating "the year of the belt."

Norell's style ideas for fall are still a showroom secret, but he claims he is not designing any loose clothes. "I'm using belts again."

Maurice Rentner's designer Blass includes plenty of lissome, Jeanne Baker, Hazel Wilcox and unconstricted costumes in his own Ida Green.

This time belt makers do not intend to protest the renewed interest in cinchless middles. They have faith that men will never let women let designers let the sack come back — all the way.

EARLY DAYS RECOUNTED—Dr. Ellisworth Mason, librarian in Colorado College, is shown with assorted items of a collection of Colorado ranch life in the 1880s.

1880s which has been presented to the college by Mrs. Elizabeth Hayes Goddard of Chevy Chase, Md.

Collection Given to CC Recounts Early Days Here

Colorado College has received at Granger, just north of what now is Falcon, three diaries, and a 21-page manuscript.

Letters from the early period describe student life at Colorado College, and pack trips to the Powder River country in Wyoming and to Routt County, Colorado.

A bulk of the letters and the three diaries deal with day-to-day ranching on the ZA ranch.

The 21-page manuscript, entitled "Cowboys and Roundup," Hayes paints a detailed picture of what roundup life was like.

He came to the Pikes Peak Region from Canandaigua, N. Y., and after his first years at Colorado College returned to Colorado to establish the ZA ranch.

VOTER Proposal Discussion Set Wednesday Night

The first in a series of public meetings for VOTER Voters' Organization to Effect Reapportionment will be held at 8 p. m. Wednesday, at All Souls Unitarian Church, 730 N. Tejon St., Albert J. Buzbee, district chairman for the VOTER committee of the Colorado Springs area, announced Saturday.

Sponsoring organizations represented on the state committee are Colorado League of Women Voters, Colorado Labor Council, AFL-CIO, and the Colorado Education Association.

The VOTER amendment to the Colorado Constitution will be on the November ballot and stresses the following:

1. That reapportionment be accomplished as soon as possible and be mandatory every 10 years based on population figures of the federal census.

2. That the power and responsibility to reapportion be removed from the general assembly and placed in the hands of a commission.

3. That the precise method of apportionment of the legislature be defined in the Constitution of the State of Colorado.

4. That the House of Representatives be apportioned on a strict population basis with a maximum deviation of 33-1/3 per cent from the mean.

5. That the most populous counties be subdivided into districts to shorten the ballot.

6. That the method of subdivision of populous counties be specified in the Constitution so as to make equal population districts without gerrymandering.

7. That no part of any county may be combined with another county or part of another county in forming legislative districts.

8. That the Supreme Court be required to review the apportionment made by the commission on petition of not less than 1,000 qualified electors.

9. That no legislative district should include more than 5,000 square miles of area.

10. That the state census requirement in the Constitution be eliminated.

Freeman Sees Discontent With Farm Legislation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman said here the narrow margin by which wheat farmers approved 1963 marketing quotas last week demonstrated their discontent over the slow pace of farm legislation.

Wheat farmers voting in a 28-state referendum approved marketing quotas for the 1963 crop by a margin of 68.4 per cent. This is barely over the legislative requirement that two-thirds of those voting must approve quotas before they can be put into effect.

Of 235,696 farmers who voted, 161,242 voted for quotas and 74,454 against.

In referendums in nine previous years, farmers approved quotas by majorities well above the necessary two-thirds.

Thursday's close vote "shows that wheat farmers obviously want a program which provides realistic opportunities for better income and for sound progress in bringing wheat supplies into balance," Freeman said in a statement.

This year's referendum was delayed several times because of legislative delays in shaping up a farm bill. The bill still has not cleared Congress, and the referendum Thursday had to be on a program that was enacted basically in 1938.

Colorado wheat farmers voted 4,364 to 2,624 Thursday in favor of marketing quotas for the 1963 wheat crop, but the proposal failed to gain the needed two-thirds majority for approval.

The vote was only 62.4 per cent in favor, where 66.6 was needed. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service in Denver said 264 of the 6,988 votes cast were challenged.

Wyoming's vote was 583 to 406 in favor of the quotas, a 58.9 per cent margin.

Under the quota system, the following conditions go into effect: —Producers who stay within their acreage allotments may market all the wheat they produce without penalty.

Warren Smith Jr. Appointed to Naval ROTC

Warren E. Smith Jr., son of Lt. Col. (U.S. Army Ret.) Warren E. Smith and Mrs. Smith, 108 Dartmouth St., has been appointed to the Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps.

The appointment is the result of a nationwide examination taken in December, 1961, according to Chief Petty Officer R. F. Garlow and Everett M. Dirksen of the Navy Recruiting Massachusetts.

House Republican signers were Reps. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, Charles B. Hoeven of Iowa and Clarence J. Brown of Ohio.

Warren was advised that he had also passed the college board examination for the University of Colorado at Boulder where he will report Sept. 9 to begin his course of studies.

Warren chose NROTC over both a merit and joint honor scholarship awarded as a result of his academic standing as a 1962 graduate of Widefield High School.

NROTC students are allowed to choose their major and Warren has picked mathematics. He will be required to complete prescribed naval science courses as well.

As a NROTC student, Warren will receive four years of college education with tuition paid and books furnished, plus $50 a month expense money. Upon his successful completion, he will be commissioned an ensign in the U.S. Navy or a second lieutenant in the U.S. Marine Corps, according to his choice.

World-Wide Peace Demonstration Being Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican congressional leaders have written President Kennedy urging organization of worldwide peace demonstrations against the Communist-erected wall in Berlin.

The letter, signed by nine Senate and House Republicans, proposed that Kennedy take the initiative in setting up demonstrations.

"We urge that all motion picture footage which exists, all photographs, all documentary evidence, in fact every iota of truth available, be amassed for worldwide distribution by television and radio, by shortwave, by film, by the printed word and picture," the Republicans said.

"Peaceful demonstrations, international letter-writing campaigns, picketing and protest rallies by people of all ages, races and creeds, openly promoted by free governments everywhere."

Republican senators who signed the letter, sent to Kennedy Friday, were Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Thomas H. Kuchel of California, Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

HINTS FROM Heloise By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

When I iron white things, sometimes I scorch a spot. I find it an excellent idea to keep a bottle of peroxide and a piece of cotton cloth or some facial tissues near the ironing board.

I can then dab the scorched spot with some peroxide and let it set for a while. I then put a facial tissue over the spot and iron over it again. The brown spot is all gone and saves bleaching and washing the entire garment over again.

Alice Smith

Dear Heloise:

When cooking from a recipe that says "tie spices in gauze bag" and later you want to remove the bag, try putting your spices in an aluminum tea infuser. That's the gadget you put tea in with a chain on top of it! — Heloise

When I make pot-roast gravy, I always throw in three or four cloves. Or better still, with cloves, make an onion porcupine and let it remain in the pot during cooking. I think this is an onion with a few cloves stuck in it. Am I right? It's a great idea! — Heloise

Daily Reader

Dear Heloise:

Why do you say to soak clothes only 10 minutes? I always soak mine overnight in suds and bleach.

Doris O'Leary

Home economists tell us that after clothes soak 14 minutes the dirt is loose in the water. After that time, the dirt in the water starts soaking back into the clothes. I take their word for it as laundry is their business! I, too, have tested this.

When I tell you to soak your clothes only ten minutes, I know what I'm doing. When your bell goes off to tell you the 10 minutes is up, housewives and mothers are either in the bath, wiping a child's face, or on the phone. Then it takes another three or four minutes for you to find your cigarettes or say goodbye and get back to the laundry.

Ten minutes is considered sufficient time for soaking clothes. If you leave them 16 minutes, the dirt will begin setting back into them! The water is soiled by that time.

What would it look like if you took a perfectly clean white shirt and soaked it in dirty water? It would get gray!

Don't soak clothes in dirty water. This is why people who have old type manual machines always wash their white clothes first, coloreds next and then dark things. Remember how dirty the water in the wash tubs used to be by the time you washed the colored things? Same thing with soaking! And don't forget the soap film. If your clothes are white before ironing and then turn gray, it's soap film. Remove it.
